BILL GLASSFORD QUITTING NU

—'Atomic Summit' Plan—

H-Blast Peace Prod Rejected

AEC Member Wants Explosion Before World Leaders' Eyes; Other Commissioners Scoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority of the Atomic Energy Commission Thursday night turned thumbs down on one commissioner's proposal for a great world conclave at Eniwetok atoll to witness an explosion of a giant hydrogen bomb.

AEC member Thomas E. Murray pressed the dramatic proposal in a speech Thursday night in New York, saying the demonstration blast would be a "declaration of American power" and would spur the quest for world peace.

He proposed that representatives of all nations be convened at the Eniwetok atomic proving grounds in the Pacific for "a meeting at the atomic summit"—a meeting to be featured by a demonstration blast of a large thermonuclear weapon.

For one thing, he said, this would disabuse Soviet Russia and its ally Red China of any idea that the Soviets have caught up with the United States in developing the awesome power of the atom.

Reject

But Thursday night the other four members of the commission issued a statement rejecting the proposal of Murray, a holdover from the Truman administration. They indicated a belief that, instead of persuading Russia to "an effective system" for atomic arms controls, it might spur the Russians on to press their atomic program.

Chairman Lewis L. Straus and Commissioners Willard F. Libby, John Von Neumann and Harold S. Vance said:

"The recommendation which Mr. Murray makes as the major theme of his address is one he has long advocated. A number of months ago, the commission by formal action rejected Commissioner Murray's motion to invite foreign observers, among them Communist observers to witness tests of nuclear weapons in the Pacific. The commission has never changed its position on this matter. Mr. Murray's proposal, therefore is contrary to the judgment of the Atomic Energy Commission.

'Spurred Them'

"It should be noted that Russian and other foreign observers were invited to the tests at Bikini in 1946 where they witnessed atomic explosions of previously unimaginable destructive force. This demonstration, however, did not persuade the Soviet government of the need to join with us and other nations in an effective system for the international control of atomic energy in all its forms. On the contrary, it appears to have spurred them in their nuclear weapons program, a fact which is underlined by the recent series of test explosions in Soviet territory.

"Commission tests in the Pacific have never been designed as a 'show of force' but are solely for the development of weapons necessary for defense of the free world."

Murray spoke before a Golden Jubilee dinner of Fordham University's Law School. He said he was not speaking for the AEC, and government spokesmen made plain in advance of the address that his proposal had not been adopted as an Eisenhower administration policy.

Declaring that in unleashing the atom, man has obtained the power to end his own history, Murray said his proposal would publicly dramatize "the price of war" and "the international duty of peace."

Promises Balance

Budget Director Rowland Hughes, shown at the door of the temporary White House office in Gettysburg Postoffice, said, after a conference with President Eisenhower, that it looks as if the federal budget can be balanced in both the present and 1956-57 fiscal years. Hughes declined to say if a balanced budget would mean a cut in taxes. (See story on Page 2.) (AP Wirephoto)

Nevada Crash Kills 14

Mishap Details Shrouded In Secrecy

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A large Air Force transport plane, en route with 14 aboard to the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada Proving Ground, crashed Thursday in the snow-cloaked Charleston Mountains.

It was presumed the 14, as yet unidentified, perished. A rescue party was near or at the scene in the rugged, wooded moutains, 27 miles northwest of here.

The transport left early Thursday from Burbank, Calif., and at 3 p.m. was overdue eight hours at Indian Springs Air Force Base near the atomic bomb test site at Yucca and Frenchman flats.

Details of the crash were shrouded in secrecy. March Air Force base at Riverside, Calif., said that it had information on the crash but that for security reasons it could not release any.

This gave rise to speculation that the plane, believed to be a four-engine C-54, may have been carrying scientists or classified equipment to the AEC test site.

However, an AEC spokesman at Albuquerque, N.M., said that any embargo on information about the crash "is not for AEC security reasons." The spokesman added that the AEC had no knowledge of the missing plane.

When the aircraft failed to arrive as scheduled at Indian Springs AFB, a search was started. A few hours later the wreckage was reported sighted, far off the usual aircraft flight paths.

5-Year Option Refused; Coach Says No 'Pay-Off'

. . . Football Mentor Ending Seven Years Here

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Nebraska Football Coach J. William Glassford will not exercise his five-year option.

Cornhusker mentor for the past seven years, Glassford made the announcement late Thursday afternoon. It had been rumored for several days that the Husker coach had made up his mind to step down and Glassford made it official Thursday.

In a prepared statement, Glassford said:

"My family and I have decided for our best interests and happiness that I will not accept the five-year option on my contract."

Glassford's family includes his wife, Dee, and 14-year-old son, Gary.

Glassford came here in 1949 and after the 1950 season received a $12,500-a-year contract for five years with a five-year option. His decision to pass up the option means Glassford is passing up $62,500 in salary.

Denies Rumors

There have been stories circulating for weeks that Glassford was in line for a pay-off on his option, but he emphatically denied this Thursday.

The Husker coach's resignation came as the Huskers were in the midst of preparing for their final game of the season — against Oklahoma for the Big Seven Championship — and wound up a hectic day on the Lincoln campus.

A rumor story by Gregg McBride of the Omaha World Herald, one of Glassford's staunchest backers, said the NU coach was bowing out and laid part of the blame on Lincoln business men.

Efforts to reach Glassford early in the morning were futile and at 11 a.m. his office reported he had not checked in. But shortly after that Bill was located in the basement of the Coliseum, huddling with his assistant coaches on the strategy for the Oklahoma game.

Said 'Decision Made'

At that time Glassford told newsmen that he and his wife "had made our decision, and it will be released in the near future."

Glassford, while refusing to declare himself, said that he had received no pay-off, nor had he been offered anything to quit the Nebraska coaching job.

"Nobody has talked to me, he said. "Nobody owes me anything. I came here clean and I'll leave clean. My wife and I aren't interested in a dime from the State of Nebraska or any of its people. I don't want any money for work I don't do."

Glassford said he had not divulged his decision to anyone other than his family, but admitted that he had talked to McBride Wednesday afternoon and evening.

"We thrashed it out and made our decision last night (Wednesday)," Glassford said. "But we made it after talking to Mr. McBride."

He then said he would make his announcement soon, but would not say whether it would be made before or after the Sooner game Saturday.

Early Thursday afternoon Glassford paid a visit to Chancellor Hardin's office and newsmen knew the decision would be forthcoming soon.

About 2:30 p.m., members of the press were gathered in the University field house, waiting for the usual press conference to start.

At 3 p.m., Glassford walked into the room, quickly distributed copies of his statement and said:

"I think this will take care of everything for you."

No Comment On Future

He refused to comment on his future plans, other than to say "that's too far in the future."

As for continuing in the coaching field, Glassford declined to speculate, but indicated he may not return to the football wars after the Sooner contest.

"It certainly isn't pleasant when people call your wife and boy at all hours of the day, insulting you and them in the most vicious terms," Bill said.

Turbulent Years

An era — seven years — of great things and numerous stormy and turbulent events will end then. During Glassford's regime, the longest here except for Dana X. Bible's eight-year term, such things as a player revolt, amazing upset losses and victories, general apathy and keen interest have dotted the scene.

Newsmen who remembered the hectic days of the player revolt looked relieved when Glassford's resignation was announced, much sooner than anticipated.

And Coach Glassford gave the impression he was relieved, too.

Glassford's Statement

"My family and I have decided for our best interests and happiness that I will not accept the five-year option on my contract.

"My experiences here at the University along with the many wonderful friends which I have made throughout the State of Nebraska have been gratifying.

"I sincerely hope that my successor will have the support of the State and of the Administration, and that the University itself and the loyal people of this State will achieve the things in intercollegiate athletics that they so desire.

"My coaching staff has done an outstanding job of teaching. The members of this year's football team, who have so brilliantly carried the colors of Nebraska, will be the high spot of my life. I have great love for each, and hope that they will carry on with the greatest determination and desire in the future.

Chancellor's Statement

Following Bill Glassford's resignation as head football coach at Nebraska, Chancellor Clifford Hardin made the following statement:

"Coach Glassford has informed me that he does not exercise the option of his contract which would have extended his tenure as head football coach for an additional five years, effective next June 30th.

"The decision was his alone. The University will honor its contracts with Mr. Glassford's assistant coaches. In accepting Mr. Glassford's decision for the Board of Regents may I say that during my two years here at Nebraska I have experienced a most cordial and pleasant relationship at all times with Coach Glassford I have found him to be a gentleman desirous of representing the best interests of the institution. I wish him every success."

Bill Orwig's Statement

Athletic Director Bill Orwig, on a speaking tour at Ogallala and Minden, made the following statement on Glassford's decision to pass up his option:

"Coach Glassford's decision is entirely his own. As a former coach I can sympathize fully with his problems and understand the reasons for his decision."

Tighten Credit Another Notch

. . . Federal Reserve Rate Up In 6 Cities

WASHINGTON (AP)—A strong resurgence of business activity, bringing with it large new demands for credit, resulted Thursday in new moves by the Federal Reserve Board to guard against inflation.

The board announced it had approved a hike in the interest rate at which Federal Reserve banks lend to their commercial member banks from 2¼ to 2½ per cent in six reserve districts. These are New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland and San Francisco.

This left the discount rate still at the 2¼ per cent level in Richmond, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Dallas and Boston reserve districts. They too will likely raise their rates soon, on the basis of previous practice.

Selling Securities

Additionally, the board disclosed that in the past week it had been selling government securities on the open market. It was the first week in eight weeks that the reserve system had used its powers in this way to reduce the amount of lendable funds in the economic system

The boost in the discount rates together with a return to credit absorbing sales of government securities reversed a period of neutrality by the Reserve Board which lasted from the last week in September through the week which ended Nov. 10.

Sudden Easing

During that time—immediately following President Eisenhower's heart attack and a resulting wave of business uncertainty—the board, which until then had been squeezing down on credit supplies, suddenly eased up. It pumped nearly half a billion dollars of new reserve money into the markets by purchases of government securities.

This prevented the annual peak business demand for credit in October from resulting in increased tightness of the money supply.

With the first week of this month, however, there was increasing evidence, in the form of rising stock market prices and growing supply shortages reflected in rising commodity prices, that a new wave of confidence had spread through the business community.

The demand for credit increased strongly in the last three weeks.

Boosting the discount rate is expected to slow down credit expansion by increasing the cost of borrowing by banks and, therefore, by the clients of the banks.

Sec. Dulles Gives Ike His Report

Nation To Hear Geneva Story Tonight

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles explored for 85 minutes Thursday the failure of East and West to solve vital differences at the Geneva conferences.

What conclusions they may have reached on where America and the Western Allies go from here in their quest for a just world peace was a secret they shared only with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

But there were grounds for believing that Dulles was not entirely pessimistic; that he informed the President he still thinks Russia may consent to unifying Germany on terms agreeable to the West.

Report To People

Possibly he may say as much publicly Friday night in a report to the American people on the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Geneva. But he also is likely to hang squarely on the Russians the failure at Geneva to agree on conditions for a unified Germany, for achieving European security, for disarmament and for increasing East-West contacts.

The secretary outlined to Eisenhower what he has in mind for his radio-TV report, then closeted himself with aids in the Gettysburg hotel to start drafting it.

The President and Dulles will go over the drafts of the address to the nation in another conference Friday morning.

Limousine

The two top men in the State Department arrived here at 3:05 p.m. CST, hopped into a White House limousine, and were driven directly to the President's study from 3:25 until 4:45.

Hoover flew back to Washington Thursday night after the conversations broke up.

The Dulles flight across the Atlantic, to Bermuda, Washington and Gettysburg was something of an adventure for the secretary.

Eisenhower had sent his personal plane, the four-engined Columbine III, to Geneva to bring Dulles home. One engine went out and it landed at Bermuda on the other three.

Wonderful Swim

A Military Air Transport plane was rushed to Bermuda, while Dulles had what he called "a wonderful swim."

The secretary still was only 12 minutes behind schedule when he reached Washington.

A light, twin-engined Air Force plane ferried Dulles into Gettysburg—for a tricky landing in stiff winds

Confession Saves Man From Death

McALESTER, Okla. (INS) — Hurbie Franklin Fairris Jr., was granted a 60-day stay of execution late Thursday after a pal confessed killing an Oklahoma City detective for which the doomed man was sentenced to death.

The stay came just a few hours before Farris was scheduled to die in the electric chair at 12:01 a.m. Friday.

Gov. Raymond Gary telephoned Warden H. C. McLeod of the state penitentiary in McAlister and ordered the stay when Raymond Price told McLeod the same story he earlier related to a Catholic priest. In this story he declared that he shot detective Bennie Cravatt during an attempted supermarket holdup in July, 1954.

Price, serving a life sentence for his part in the attempted robbery after pleading guilty, said he confessed because he "did not want to see an innocent man die."

Farris, 21-year-old Dallas youth was convicted as the one who actually fired the shot that killed the officer.

State Cold Continues

. . . Five In Nation Die

While most of the nation withstood the grips of icy cold weather, snow and hard, chill winds, and snared traffic Thursday Nebraska had only to contend with the cold. At two points in the state, Imperial and Chadron, the mercury dipped to a minus two degree reading.

Despite Thursday's chilly temperatures the Weather Bureau indicated the state would warm somewhat Friday. Forecasts called for highs in the 30s.

Occasional light snow was forecast for the extreme west Friday.

Cold From Canada

At least five persons died across the nation in the wake of the arctic air which dipped in from Canada and spread across the nation as far south as northern Florida. Several trapped hunters were rescued in Utah and Michigan. Hundreds of others, the Associated Press reported, were marooned.

Snow, 10 inches deep, accompanied by gale force winds was dumped in upper Michigan and parts of Wisconsin. Farther east one to five inches fell in New York state.

Fresh snowfalls up to three inches fell in northern Midwest areas.

Below Zero

In Nebraska from Grand Island on west the mercury dipped to frigid low readings. Imperial and Chadron with two below zero lows, were the coldest spots in the state. North Platte had a zero low reading.

Sidney and Scottsbluff dropped to three above zero and Norfolk and Grand Island each had six above for their low marks.

Lincoln, with a cold 28 degree reading, was the warmest spot in the state, according to the Weather Bureau. It dipped to 13 for the low. At Sidney the mercury climbed only to 19 above.

Msgr. C. J. Riordan Leaving Post As Pastor At Cathedral

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Clarence J. Riordan resigned as pastor of St. Mary's Cathedral, a post he has held since March, 1937, diocesan sources announced Thursday.

The 53-year-old priest, who has been in ill health for some months and absent from his Lincoln duties since last spring, will be succeeded by the Rev. John Flynn, pastor of St. Mary's Church in Dawson.

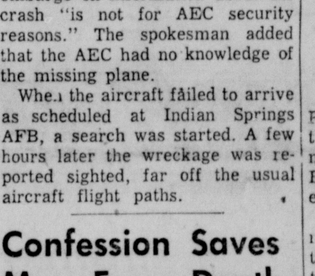
According to the Southern Nebraska Register, official diocesan newspaper, Msgr. Riordan will continue as the vicar general of the diocese, a post which makes him the vice-president of each parish corporation with powers similar to the bishop's.

Upon Msgr. Riordan's return from Denver, where he was hospitalized for his illness, he will be placed in a less demanding assignment than the Cathedral pastorate, the Most Rev. Bishop Louis B. Kucera said.

The newspaper indicated Msgr. Riordan would return to Lincoln sometime soon, although no definite date was given.

Fr. Flynn will assume the Cathedral pastorate on Dec. 11, the newspaper said.

A 41-year-old native of Ireland, the priest served as assistant pastor in Beatrice and Falls City, and as pastor at Burchard and Table Rock before his present appointment. His successor at Dawson and Shubert parishes has not been named.



Fr. Flynn | Msgr. Riordan

Msgr. Riordan, who is a native of Lincoln, served as assistant pastor in some Lincoln and nearby parishes as well as diocesan offices before he received appointment as Cathedral rector. He was elevated to the rank of very reverend monsignor in 1939 and right reverend monsignor in 1945. He was named vicar general of the diocese in 1944.

Fr. Flynn will also succeed Msgr. Riordan as dean of the Lincoln Deanery, a subdivision of the diocese.

Bellhop Otto Bock Stricken At Work

Mr. Bock lived at 3225 So. 40th. Survivors were not immediately identified.

Consultant Reports:

Federal Rule Won't Stop A-Plant By-Product Use

By B. R. ROTHENBERGER
Star Staff Writer

Emerson Jones, nuclear consultant for the Consumers Public Power District, said Thursday that federal law requiring government ownership of residues resulting from the operation of nuclear piles would not interfere with Nebraska's plans for by-products development in connection with the district's operation of its proposed atomic-powered electric generating plant.

"It is true," said Jones, "that the Atomic Energy Commission is not permitted to give up title and ultimate control of spent fuel elements. But the ash or residues are useful for the type of by-products we are envisioning while still hot —that is to say, intensely radioactive. There is no barrier to using radioactivity expended during the cooling off process.

"It is a matter of timing," Jones explained. "The atomic residues will be useful to Nebraska while cooling off. They will not be desired by the AEC until they have cooled off."

Treatment in Plant

Jones added that in addition industrial and scientific use of the cooling radioactivity other products can be treated by introduction into the atomic pile while it is operating But these do not figure as residues.

Jones discussed by-products development and the Consumers Public Power District's progress toward negotiating a plant construction contract after he and other Nebraskans returned from Chicago where they conferred with the AEC's Chicago operations officials.

Included in the Nebraska group besides Jones were Consumers General Manager Ray Schacht, the district's power supervisor, Wm. Venable, and construction engineer R. W. Beck, all of Columbus, and the district's attorney, Richard W. Wilson. Also attending the conference were representatives of North American Aviation of California, builders of the sodium graphite type of nuclear reactor selected by Consumers for its proposed plant.

Progress Made

The conference, Jones said, centered on conditions for negotiating and implementing Nebraska's plant contract.

While the Nebraskans were noncommittal on details, Jones said, "We considered the conference completely satisfactory and our progress well within our timetable."

Meantime, interest in the arrival of an atomic plant continued high in the Lincoln - Beatrice area which early reports say is the preferred plant site.

As Consumer officials at Chicago moved closer to a final okay for the Midwest's first atomic plant, Rep. Phil Weaver, of the First Nebraska Congressional District, broadcasting over a Beatrice radio station, told southeast Nebraskans that the location of an atomic power plant in the area would result in an "almost continuous town between Beatrice and Lincoln," and that small towns in the area would "eventually become big towns."

The plant, he added, will "have a tremendous economic impact" upon the state of Nebraska.

Noting that Nebraska is the only all public power state in the nation, he said Nebraskans would have "equal opportunity to prove our abiliites to be efficient and effective in production of power in that we have the opportunity" of entering a new and competitive field.

In this connection, he paid tribute to Nathan Gold of Lincoln, chairman of the Nebraska Resources Division for helping obtain for Nebraska the plant, which will be constructed by the Consumers Public Power District.

More, Improved Salk Vaccine Available

UNSAFE FACTOR ERASED

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
A.P. Science Reporter

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The main reasons for production of some bad polio vaccine last spring have been found and corrected, a special committee of polio experts announced Thursday.

Safe and potent vaccine now can be manufactured more easily in larger amounts, declared Dr. Leonard Scheele, surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service, in releasing the report.

He hailed it as "passing a crossroads in the vaccine program."

While all vaccine released for the public since May 26 has been checked out as safe, the new changes mean production can roll ahead with few or no bad batches showing up during manufacture, he said

"Won't Happen Again"

"It means it (any bad vaccine) won't happen again," said one expert interpreting the report.

The changes have been put into effect by vaccine manufacturers progressively over the last several months, the Public Health Service said.

The report mentions two apparent reasons why some batches of vaccine could contain living virus:

1. Differences in manufacturer's methods of filtering the starting liquid containing live virus, before the viruses are exposed to formaldehyde to kill them all.

Such differences could have permitted some viruses to stick together in bunches, so viruses inside the bunch were not exposed and killed.

Twice Filtered

Now the liquid must be filtered no more than 72 hours before the formaldehyde treatment begins, and filtered again within the first week of this killing treatment. This is to assure that the virus particles are all separate.

2. Safety tests in force early last spring were not sensitive enough to detect all poorly inactivated batches of vaccine.

These tests were tightened since then and applied to vaccine released since May 26. They now have been made still more sensitive to rule out living virus in finished vaccine.

'Loyalty Oath'— Democrats Push Hard For Unity

CHICAGO (AP) — Democrats moved swiftly Thursday to unify their forces for next year's elections.

The party's National Committee, at the first session of a three-day party meeting, unanimously approved a compromise set of convention rules designed to bury the "loyalty oath" controversy.

And the committee filled out its own ranks by seating four members—including one who was a compromise candidate from Texas, which went Republican in 1952.

But a threat of fresh discord over loyalty in the 1956 convention was voiced by Stephen A. Mitchell, former national chairman who headed the Advisory Committee on Rules.

The rules approved and recommended for use at the convention opening Aug. 13 in Chicago included these provisions:

A state party will send delegates to the national convention who are "bona fide Democrats who have the interests, welfare and success of the party at heart." No additional "loyalty pledge" would be required beyond that in the absence of a contest or challenge.

The state party will "assure" that the convention's nominees for president and vice president will appear on the state ballot under the Democratic label.

Under another approved rule an attempt will be made to limit time-consuming roll calls on the floor of the convention hall. The convention chairman can continue with the general roll call while a state delegation is being polled unless an open poll is demanded by one-third of the delegates of the state involved.

AF 'Brass' Marooned On Radar Tower

TEXAS TOWER, 110 miles off Cape Cod, Mass. (AP)—A 50 m.p.h. northwest gale lashing 20-foot seas marooned a party of Air Force brass aboard the nation's first manmade radar island Thursday.

The Air Force is making a final inspection before accepting the 3,000-ton triangular steel platform from the contractors.

Nearly 30 Air Force officers, civilians and technicians were hoister atop the 100-foot tower four at a time Friday in a basket attached to a 50-ton crane.

Rough seas prevented taking them off again. Another attempt will be made Friday.

The tower stands in 50 feet of water on Georges Bank, New England's most famous fishing shoal, about 150 miles east of Boston. Two hundred feet on each side, the tower is supported at each corner of the triangle by a single 200-foot leg weighing a thousand tons.

Suit Against Loan Co. Said Lacking Proof

OMAHA (AP) — A three-judge court ruled Thursday that the state's suit against Associates Discount Corp., Omaha, on charges of unlawful loan activities and exorbitant interest rates was lacking in proof of its allegations.

The action, in effect, threw out the suit.

The judges said "the petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action and the state has no authority to prosecute the action under the installment loan act."

State Citizens Council Tax Meet Dec. 5

The fifth annual Tax Conference sponsored by the Nebraska Citizens Council will be held in Lincoln, Dec. 5th to discuss problems of state and county government, education and taxes.

R. M. Armstrong, Executive Director of the Council, said state Tax Commissioner Fred A. Herrington will explain the provisions of the new tax laws at the forenoon session of the conference. Many questions have been raised about the assessment of property under the new "basic value" law passed by the last legislature.

The use of the "average inventory" law for assessing livestock and grain in the same manner as merchandise inventories has also raised some troublesome questions, Armstrong said.

The Council extends a special invitation to all county assessors and county board members to attend the conference and participate in the question period. Armstrong said that Tax Commissioner Herrington and his assistant, Wilber Houtchens, will answer questions from county officials and taxpayers.

The annual business meeting of the Council will be held in the morning before the tax conference. Five trustees are to be elected to serve for terms of three years on the board of fifteen members as required by law.

IRAN PREMIER SLIGHTLY WOUNDED

TEHERAN Iran (AP)—An attacker shot and slightly wounded Premier Hussein, Ala, 72, at the shah mosque in central Tehran Thursday.

Police quickly captured the gunman and took him to the military governor's office. There he was identified as a Moslem religious fanatic named Mozaffar Ali Zulghanded, 32, from the village of Khamseh.

He said he came here Wednesday and "decided to begin a fight against infidels because I feel the Islamic rules are not being properly carried out."

The premier was taken to the Iranian Railways Co. Hospital for treatment of a slight wound at the back of his neck. He was not kept long and, returning to his office, he telephoned Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi to say he was "feeling fine."

The pro-West and anti-Communist premier also assured the shah he was leaving with an 8-man mission as scheduled Friday for Baghdad to attend the first full meeting of the five-nation Baghdad Defense Alliance.

Japanese Education Called Big Donation Of U.S. Christians

Support of higher education in Japan is one of the outstanding contributions of U.S. Christians, said Dr. Monkichi Namba, president of Kobe College, who visited the University of Nebraska campus Thursday.

Dr. Namba, who recently assumed the presidency of the women's college and high school, was visiting the country for three months under a Rockefeller Foundation grant to study education for women.

The institution he heads is one of 30 women's colleges in Japan. Of these, he said, only two are run by the government.

Dr. Namba said "this means the government does not have a great deal of interest in women's education."

He explained there had been a great increase in the number of women enrolling in college since the war when women were granted equal status. Kobe College, an 80-year-old liberal arts school, has had a yearly increase in enrollment, he said, and now has a total of 850 college and 750 high school students.

Dr. Namba was particularly interested in visiting the University of Nebraska campus because of his friendship with Margaret Fedde, former chairman of the University's home economics department. Miss Fedde and Dr. Namba served on the same faculty in Japan for a year.

While at the University, Dr. Namba inspected operations of the Women's Residence Halls, toured the home economics department and home management house, and visited with faculty members.

'Mishandled'Spuds Cause Of Lawsuit

Tastee Inn, Inc., of Lincoln has filed suit for $6,716.70 in damages allegedly sustained by "careless and negligent handling" of more than five carloads of potatoes in cold storage.

The firm claims in Lancaster District Court that the Beatrice Food Co. had agreed to store the potatoes at 34 degrees.

But the potatoes became wet and sprouted, because the storage temperature was above that figure.

A special message to truck drivers' wives

from your Ford Dealer . . .

This year, everybody is talking about safety in automobiles. And with good reason. The hazards of the road take more American lives every year than we lost in the whole Korean war.

So important things are being done to make cars safer.

But—isn't safety even more important in trucks?

If safety is important to the man who drives a car a few hours a day, isn't it even more important to the man (and his family) who drives a truck for a living?

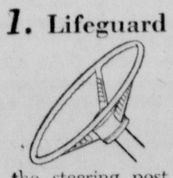
We think it is.

And we think you wives think it is. That's why we believe you'll be vitally interested in what Ford has done to make driving a truck safer for your husband.

Ford has taken the lead in safety with not just one, but a whole family of new safety features for America's trucks and cars.

What are these features that could be so important to you?

1. Lifeguard Steering Wheel



Ford's exclusive Lifeguard truck steering wheel is built in such a way that, in case of accident, it helps protect the driver from any contact with the steering post. This kind of "deep-center" steering wheel actually acts as a cushion in case of accidents.

2. Lifeguard Door Latches

Ford's Lifeguard door latches have a new "double grip" type construction. Their extra holding strength gives added protection against doors flying open in the event of an accident . . . to help keep the driver in the truck where he's twice as safe.

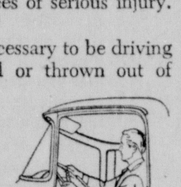
3. Seat Belts

You've read a lot about seat belts. You probably know that the Accident Research Center at Cornell University, the American College of Surgeons and many other groups strongly urge that every owner equip his vehicle with seat belts. Studies prove that in about one-half of all accidents, injuries could be avoided or reduced by the use of seat belts.

Ford is the first truck manufacturer to make seat belts available (at low extra cost, for both new and used trucks).

In case of an accident, or sudden stop, a Ford Seat Belt holds the driver firmly in the seat. This greatly cuts down the chances of serious injury.

And remember—it isn't necessary to be driving fast to be seriously injured or thrown out of the truck in case of an accident. A sizable percentage of injuries of this kind occur at speeds of only 30 or even 25 miles per hour. (If your dealer happens to be out of seat belts temporarily, please be patient. He will have them shortly.)



4. Tubeless Tires

This year, tubeless tires are standard equipment on every Ford Truck. Tubeless tires do not prevent punctures. But they do help to prevent many blowouts. When a puncture occurs in a tubeless tire, the air is apt to escape very slowly. The driver has a greater chance to slow down and stop safely.

5. Power Brakes

What we call vacuum-boosted power brakes make it possible for the driver to apply a lot more force to the brakes, faster and easier. This makes it possible to stop faster in emergencies. Power brakes are standard or available on every '56 Ford Truck.

6. High Visibility

A better view of the road—in front, behind and to the sides—can help the driver to spot trouble before it happens. A full-wrap windshield is standard on the new Ford Trucks for '56. The standard rear window is the widest on any truck . . . and a new full-wrap rear window is available at slight extra cost. All told, a new Ford Truck gives the driver one of the greatest all-around glass areas of any truck.

7. Reserve Power

A "slowpoke" truck can be a threat to highway safety—it is a stumbling block in the path of other traffic. Trucks should have enough power to keep up with the traffic stream. And they should have enough reserve power to pull out of emergency situations. So you will be interested to know that the new Ford Trucks for '56 have power increases up to 26%, to make sure drivers have all the reserve power they are ever likely to need.

Why should any man who drives a truck for a living take chances, needless chances, by not taking advantage of every available safety device?

To repeat—if safety is important to a man who drives a car once in a while, isn't it far more important to the man who drives a truck all day, for a living?

When a man drives a '56 Ford Truck—from Pickup to tandem-axle Big Job—he and his family have this peace of mind. They know he's driving a truck that gives him the added protection of exclusive Lifeguard safety features.

U.S. Okays A New Approach In Cold War—'Bebop'

WASHINGTON (AP) — American "bebop" will soon be putting in hot licks for our side in the cold war.

All around the world, it seems, the masses of the people like it. So the heavy thinkers in the U. S. campaign to win friends have decided they should have more of it.

Rep Powell, Negro Democrat from New York City, told newsmen about it Thursday. Sitting in with him at a news conference was the old bebopper himself, Dizzy Gillespie.

And what did Dizzy think about it?

"Man," said Dizzy.

'New Approach'

Powell said the State Department has approved a "new approach" to cultural aspects of the U. S. overseas propaganda efforts. This will shift the sights from the "squares" of the white-tie music set to mass audiences.

As presently planned, "gates" of the jazz crowd in the Middle East, Africa and Asia will get a chance to swing and sway to such maestros as Gillespie, Count Basie and Louie Armstrong.

"The United States is going to emphasize Americana," he said. "We are going to get our cultural exchange program out of the gilded concert and opera halls and try to appeal to the mass of the people.

Mixed Groups

"We are also going to use as far as possible mixed groups of artists —not all Negroes or all whites— and specialize in folk and modern jazz music and native and modern dance."

Powell said the State Department already has approved tours by Gillespie and Count Basie. Louie Armstrong and mambo maestro Tito Puente are also on the list to take the American message abroad.

Powell said one thing influencing the change in cultural propaganda tactics was the unexpected popularity of disc jockeys playing popular music on Voice of America broadcasts.

Fan Mail

Powell said the Voice now is "getting a lot of fan mail from behind the Iron Curtain asking for autographed photos of the artists. It is the first mail response we have been able to get."

Powell said the State Department put its o.k. to the new cultural exchange approach Wednesday. He said approval came from Theodore C Streibert, head of the U. S. Information Agency, and Robinson McIlvaine, administrator of the President's Emergency Fund for International Affairs. The fund finances cultural exchange projects.

Three Farmers Give Reply On Wheat Charges

Three farmers have filed answers in Federal District Court to U.S. civil complaints against them for overplanting wheat acreage allotments in 1954 and for collection of penalty payment due on excess wheat.

They contended, as a first defense, that the government has not stated sufficient facts for a cause of action.

As a second defense, they alleged the statutes on which the government action was predicated violate Article V of the U.S. Constitution, depriving them of property without due process of law and taking private property for public use without just compensation.

The answering defendants were Aubry A. Barr and Claude Murphy of York and George Thomson of Palmyra.

Two other defendant farmers moved the court to require the government to make more definite its complaint regarding:

1. On what basis did the county Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Committee establish the defendant's wheat acreage allotment of six acres?

2. On what basis was 17.2 bushels established as the normal per acre yield and in what manner were notices purportedly given?

Judge John W. Delehant set hearing on this motion for Nov. 26.

Pen Inmate Pleads Guilty To Arson

Penitentiary Inmate Lawrence Rhodus, 19, from Walthill pleaded guilty in Lancaster District Court on a second-degree arson charge in connection with the Aug. 16 prison riot and fire.

Rhodus had been bound over from County Court following a preliminary hearing, where he had pleaded innocent.

District Judge Paul White deferred sentencing pending an investigation by the adult probation officer.

Rhodus is serving a one-to-five year term from Dakota County for auto theft, begun June, 1954.

The "score" in the Penitentiary incident is now 12 inmates who have pleaded guilty, two convicted, 10 sentenced, four awaiting sentence, and five awaiting trial.

More Clinics In Nebraska

Earlier in the week there was a discussion of Nebraska's lack of adequate mental clinics, and the state's poor record of discharge as cured of patients committed to the mental institutions.

Maybe the record is not so bad, after all.

Out on the west coast, the news columns reveal that a young resident physician was shot and killed at the University of California clinic by a psychiatric outpatient bearing a grudge against doctors for diagnosing him as "nuts." That, it is true, is only one case out of many but there is scarcely a week goes by that somewhere in the United States there isn't a tragedy attributable to someone suffering from mental disorder. In a neighboring state recently a young boy who had been confined to a mental institution and then discharged took the life of his grandmother.

Naturally in any mental case, cure if possible is the important consideration. But while we are calling for clinics, and at a time when there is a disposition to look upon mental disorders as easily curable when treated correctly, some thought should be given to the inherent dangers to orderly society in quick, easy release of mental patients. We want to be sure before we turn loose numbers suffering from mental disorders who are potential killers.

Signs Of A Heart Change

It is an open secret that too much goes on in official Washington that is withheld from public knowledge. Even a hard driving, objective American press is finding itself frustrated.

But perhaps a trend in the opposite direction, the beginning of a real reaction was expressed last week when a spokesman for the Treasury department told a congressional investigating committee that everything in the government should be open to public reading except those things specifically exempted by law. He added that the press should not be required to justify its right to facts, rather the government should justify its right to withhold information.

That was well put and strictly within the spirit of the founding fathers and provides a basis upon which Congress can correctly act.

The vice of secrecy in public service is not new nor peculiar to American government. It springs from human distaste for criticism and is courted in the belief that it affords a protection for administration. The latter is a provocative fallacy for in fact in a democratic society full public knowledge maintains public faith and averts ultimate reactions of a most distasteful character. The founding fathers were more practical-minded than starry-eyed when they set up the guide posts to most successful government. Practice usually demonstrates that fact.

The American people do not ask the uncovering of plans and information touching on the welfare and security of the nation and is the first estate to show concern when there are dangerous leaks of such a nature but it does not approve of secrecy when it is applied in any direction by the rule of personal taste or convenience.

Future Course Clear

It is disappointing to have one's hopes dashed and there is no gainsaying the fact that western peoples are feeling blue over the collapse of the foreign ministers conference at Geneva.

The earlier "spirit of Geneva"—the coinage of hopeful heads of state which gained such currency in the hearts of so many who wished an end to war and a beginning of true international good will—died in the recent proceedings at the very same Geneva. When the chips were truly down Russia turned out to be what it was in the beginning—an unrelenting foe of everything that might soften or modify that which Russia wishes to have and be.

Well, reality has returned. Facts are facts. The West knows now that peace will be sustained only so long as the West keeps its guns trained on Russia, standing ready, reluctant but never unprepared. It is distressing news to a defense-burdened United States — the indefinite prolongation of a costly, unwanted but necessary task.

But in the long view the Geneva conference was not a failure. It did not bring forth desired results, but it revealed the truth and that is what people live by.

The picture is now clear. Adequate defense is no longer debatable. It is a must. If there is any re-thinking it must be in another field—the field of better relations with the people of the world generally. The Geneva conference proved the self-centered interest of Russia. It has not yet disproved Western self-interest. Only subsequent acts of true neighborliness and friendship can do that. Improvement in that field might not have come about had the Geneva conference produced even partially satisfactory agreements among the major powers. But there is nothing now to prevent the pursuit of world confidence, except what may be in the heart of the West itself.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Up until recent years, generally the American people expressed concern over the drift of population from the farm to the city. An old alluring rural America, it appeared, was tossing in the sponge. But we never expected to live long enough to hear farm leaders, spokesmen for agriculture, say bluntly and, in our eyes, brutally that thousands, perhaps as many as half a million farm families are expendable in light of mounting surpluses of some farm commodities.

★

In neighboring Illinois, Allan B. Kline, former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, was addressing the 41st annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Association. Political solutions to the farm problem may be good for politicians, Mr. Kline told his listeners, but they are certainly bad for the long-time best interests of the farmer. Then warming to his subject, Mr. Kline added: "Fourteen million people have moved from the farms (the rural areas) in the last 20 years. We in agriculture surely would be in desperate straits if current agricultural income was being divided among many millions more people who have been kept on the farm by government action. Even as things are, underemployment is a real problem for almost a million farmers. Some of these families can improve as farmers and deserve assistance. Many of them can do much better at something else." Mr. Kline, of course, would be much more satisfying if he would tell what this "something else" is. Just the thought of picking up half a million farm families, for example, farm families whose roots go deep in the soil, finding jobs for them in the factories of the cities or the towns, could give any thoughtful man or woman a chill.

At Something Else

In the mid-twenties it was the late Calvin Coolidge who said that America had changed from an agricultural to an industrial democracy. And with that thought in mind, the nation moved swiftly toward a smash which started out on the farm and then spread to the cities, including the metropolitan areas. It is commonplace today to suggest that we need fewer farmers—that one single farm family operating on a mass scale can produce the food which 10 families did two decades ago.

★

We can come to the conclusion that because of better seed, better methods of cultivation, better care of the soil and better machinery, after 14 million people have already left the farm, still another half million farm families are expendable. We can say that with the improved methods and enlarged operation, 10 years hence half of those now engaged in agriculture can produce all the food America needs. The fit and the efficient will look after our food needs, it is argued, in a rigorous test of the survival of the fittest. Weed out the incompetent, see to it that the inefficient are compelled to pull up stakes, send more people with the love of soil in their hearts to the crowded cities. Even those who insist there are more people trying to produce food than are needed at this time will recognize that when we abandon completely the old dream of the family-sized farm, then we set about to reshape an important element in American character. It has been from a rural America, from the farm that a type of leadership in this country so vital to its best interests has been available for the greater part of our national life. We lose something by way of character when we overlook the influence that rural pastoral America has exerted in the shaping of character in this country.

What About Rural Character?

Now, surely there can be agreement that America owes no one a living. It should also be possible for us to agree that the hope which has been the basis of faith in this country is that there is opportunity here for a life of the type of one's choosing.

It Was Noble

There was hardly a dissenting vote among the seven hundred Nebraska Farm Bureau convention delegates Wednesday who said they were ready to make further sacrifices in the form of reduced production and reduced income to further national welfare.

They voted to sustain the principle of flexible price supports in the face of drought-blighted production and lower market prices. And they voted to deny themselves of a right each to plant a minimum 15 acres of wheat permitted under the present marketing act if the elimination of present national surpluses required it. They said they would accept a federal soil bank plan if it would help, but they refused to put a price on the sacrifice. They only asked that landowners be restrained from later exploiting any good to the soil that came out of it.

It is putting it mildly to say that it was a position of unusual nobility and an expression of the ultimate in public interest. It will not be passed unnoticed in Nebraska as a great expression of Midwest character. As an economic and political statement it may lack quite enough of the principle of self-interest. The farmer is not wholly responsible for agricultural maladjustments and may not alone be able to correct them all.

The statement of self-sacrifice only guarantees that Nebraska agriculture is prepared to give gospel measure in helping with the problem. But it does not remove the great responsibility of Washington and non-farm segments of the national economy to meet their own responsibilities in the matter with equal citizenship.

Be Careful

The area's first snowfall brings all the reminders of real winter and one which never loses timeliness by repetition. It is the traffic danger of early winter snows. They catch the driver unprepared for the changes that winter driving demands. Caution is urged. Accidents will be prevented by the reminder that these are not the days when one can safely try to beat the stop light or to make quick maneuvers at intersections or in heavy traffic.

Demos Not Short Of Candidates

CHICAGO—Harry Truman, who carries great weight in the Democratic party, was talking to one of his former cabinet members about the probable Democratic nominee for president.

He expressed the opinion that the Democratic party had three serious and strong candidates — Adlai Stevenson, Senator Kefauver, and Governor Harriman of New York.

"We don't want to be caught without a candidate," Truman's former cabinet member suggested.

"No sir, we don't," the ex-president replied. "I'm going to this convention with a candidate."

"If anything happens to Stevenson," suggested his friend, "if he doesn't gather strength — then what?"

"Then it could be Estes," said the man who did his best to block Kefauver at the '52 convention but who has made up with him recently.

☆ ☆ ☆

BIG-CITY BOSSES

Shortly after Adlai Stevenson was nominated for president in 1952, he left Chicago for Springfield, where the man who put him across at the convention, Col. Jake Arvey, had some trouble seeing him.

Arvey wanted to urge the appointment of Mike Fanning, postmaster of Los Angeles, as Democratic national chairman. But when he finally got Adlai on the phone he was flabbergasted to find that Adlai had already made his own choice — Steve Mitchell of Chicago.

Not only had Stevenson appointed Mitchell without consulting Arvey, but Mitchell was one of Arvey's Democratic opponents in Chicago.

From that time on, Stevenson saw little of the man who made him. This was not because one soured on the other personally, but because Adlai was surrounded by a group of advisers who wanted him to play down the criticism that he'd been nominated by the big-city bosses. Stevenson worked at this so hard that some of the big-city bosses knifed him. They just didn't get out the vote. That was one reason why Eisenhower's majority over Stevenson in Democratic city strongholds ran so much farther ahead than was expected.

Today some of those Democratic bosses are still lukewarm if not opposed to Adlai. But this time he's leaning over backward to warm them up.

☆ ☆ ☆

ADLAI TO WOO FARMERS

The Adlai Stevenson brain trust has come up with the idea of having its candidate do a Kefauver in the farm belt — in other words, go on a handshaking tour.

They remember that the coonskin-capped senator from Tennessee just went round shaking hands with people in 1952. He had no money to spend on radio or TV, so he shook hands. Result was to win him more delegates than any other candidate.

New Stevenson Seeks Presidency

CHICAGO — There are noticeable differences between the 1956 model Adlai Stevenson and the 1952 version.

Stevenson assumed command of a very large press conference with a brisk assurance in which there was no trace of his old hesitations regarding the great office of the presidency. He is now a man with a settled mind on that score; he wants to be nominated and elected.

Toward that end has he put himself firmly in the hands of professional politicians. On his right sat James Finnegan, the very successful Philadelphia leader, whom Stevenson introduced with flattering references to his credentials as an expert. On his left sat Hy Raskin, a Chicago veteran who worked as Steve Mitchell's deputy when Mitchell was Democratic national chairman.

Finnegan will be Stevenson's campaign manager, Raskin his deputy. Both men are personable and bear excellent reputations but it will be quite impossible even for GOP Chairman Leonard Hall to confuse them with an egghead. In fact, an old-time reporter was heard murmuring: "Two less elliptical heads I have never seen."

Raskin will also serve as a buffer state between two important Chicagoans who are not very friendly to each other. One is Jake Arvey, the Cook county leader, who first brought Stevenson into the Illinois political picture and helped elect him governor in 1948. Arvey is described as making a comeback in influence and importance.

The other is Raskin's former boss, Mitchell. It is said that Mitchell bowed out of consideration for Finnegan's job because he wants Stevenson's old one, the governorship. Mitchell traveled indefatigably during his chairmanship and probably knows more Democrats better in the 48 states than any other person. He also made a reputation for honest and enlightened leadership — and a hot temper.

Stevenson sought to soften the contrast between today's pros and the staff of intellectuals to whom he entrusted his affairs in 1952 by having one of the latter present to take a bow, Wilson Wyatt, who ran his Springfield office. Both Wyatt and Mitchell, he said would continue to give him their invaluable assistance.

MARQUIS CHILDS

West Argued With A Stone

GENEVA — Since no agreement with the Soviets was expected from the second round of the Geneva negotiation just ended, nothing has been altered despite the increasingly tough language reminiscent of the cold war. That is the way those close to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles sum up what has seemed a wordy exercise in futility.

Since nothing has been altered, they add, there is therefore no necessity to recast American foreign policy. The Western foreign ministers have proved to the world in their prolonged duel with Soviet Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov that Russia is to blame for the continuing division of Germany which is the real source of European insecurity. As this second round was expected from the outset to be a propaganda contest, with the likelihood of just such a demonstration, Americans can take considerable satisfaction from the outcome.

But the facts do not entirely sustain that view. To begin with, there had been real hope in Washington and in the other Western capitals that progress would be made on point three of the agenda — contacts between East and West. It had been expected that a broadened exchange on several levels—trade, culture and so forth—would be agreed to in principle at any rate, thereby sustaining at least a little life in the Geneva spirit. Instead, on this point, Molotov has been, if anything, tougher than on German unity and disarmament. He has slammed the curtain down, demanding everything that Russia wants in the way of technical information and trade in strategic goods while saying "niet" to every proposal from the West.

Before the conference began it was expected that the second round would conclude with a call for a third round of the four foreign ministers some time next spring. Instead, if some members of the American delegation had had their way they would have put in the final communique or in any event in a joint western declaration the frank statement that further negotiation is useless.

There was strong resistance in the French and British delegations to any such admission of a dead end. The French, with elections probable in the early spring, were particularly concerned, arguing that to admit complete defeat would be to say to the Germans that their only hope for reuniting their country was with Moscow's help in bringing the two Germanys together. After considerable argument a formula was agreed to by the French, British and Americans, referring the question of a future meeting to the heads of state of the four powers who would determine through diplomatic channels if such a meeting were feasible.

With a third round clearly precluded for at least a year with a closing note of discord, the question is then whether any gain remains from the summit conference of last summer. There were two achievements of that conference. The President convinced the world of America's peace-loving intentions, refuting the Communist and neutralist propaganda charging the United States with brandishing the atomic bomb. Second, and more important, a tacit agreement was reached between East and West ruling out nuclear war as totally destructive for both sides.

The view of those close to Dulles, who presumably reflect his thinking, is that this tacit agreement still stands. Nothing was said during the second round to indicate that nuclear war is once more a threat.

A war beginning through an accident and spreading beyond the immediate source of hostility suggests the ultimate danger of resort to nuclear weapons, particularly since so large a share of American defense is based on such weapons.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Goblins, Inverted Tulips, And Apple Harvest

By MONA B. PARKER

Danny Perkins of Fairmont ran into difficulty — and something else — one dreary, eerie night recently. He put his startlement into verse, and the Fillmore Chronicle presented it:

One Hallowe'en night in the moonlight
I met a witch or goblin,
So I ran with all my might.
I hit the gutter all full of mud,
you see,
And all of the goblins went, "Hee, hee, hee!"

☆ ☆ ☆

Hallowe'en pranksters in Stanton performed a double service to the community, according to Ken McCormick. First was the tearing down of Stanton County's sign listing veterans who had lost their lives in service. The Register "had not campaigned against the sign because of what it was meant to be but because of what it turned out to be." It had fallen into such disrepair as to be an eyesore . . .

In its place was put a cannon, long stored at the fairgrounds, and the American Legion will now make a permanent seating for the gun and a plaque to go with it.

☆ ☆ ☆

A Morrill man has worked out perhaps the most ingenious scheme yet to get his wife to come home. The little woman departed to visit relatives on the west coast, and after an unpleasant taste of batching, the husband began to campaign for an end to the visit. After several unsuccessful weeks of subtle hints, he finally sent her a copy of The Mail, but first clipped out one paragraph from Editor Montgomery's personal column. His wife took the next plane home.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Wymore Arbor State hit what it termed a "quiet" spell. Which means, "nothing exciting, unusual, rare, gory, extreme, or otherwise." All of which, says the Arbor State, "makes it difficult to get enthused over publishing a paper."

☆ ☆ ☆

Stan Smith, on the other hand, would gladly have swapped a little of the excitement that piled up around the Wauneta Breeze for some of the monotonous quiet. "A sad, sad story," he called it. All in one day and night a tape pulley on the folding machine came loose, wrapped up in the folding rollers and proceeded to tear up the entire machine. Several castings were broken, plus tapes and other sundry items. He had to get the local welder out of bed, and finally finished the week's mail at six o'clock in the morning. He admitted he was somewhat bushed — after 22 hours in the shop.

☆ ☆ ☆

Arch Jarrell says it was a red-faced amateur gardener in Grand Island the other day whose wife discovered, just in time, that he was planting tulip bulbs upside down. One would think, with all his horticultural experience, that Mr. Jarrell would be able to plant tulips right-side-up by this time.

Apple Grower Earl Rohrer of Friend reports an excellent harvest of the fruit from the nine trees he tends. From the Golden Delicious, Rome Beauty, Grimes Golden and Winesap varieties, he received more than 100 bushels, with one Golden Delicious tree producing better than 18 bushels.

Creatures of the wild must of necessity depend on the instinct of preservation for mere survival, and the deer herds of the state have put this to apparent good use in keeping a leap and bound ahead of the men with the guns. The Kearney Hub notes that with open season just ahead in many northwestern areas of Nebraska, Buffalo County seems to have taken on a special appeal for increasing numbers of the wily creatures. One land-owner had seen a herd of 16 deer in his pasture, and another had spotted a deer that has taken up permanent headquarters in a plum thicket on his farm.

The Small Farmer

Oconto, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star:

In last Saturday's edition of The Star was a letter from Mr. Herrick of Curtis, Neb. His idea is the same as mine concerning a farm plan for helping the small operator stay in business. If Mr. Herrick will look up his Star of Oct. 20 and read my letter, he will find something that I believe he will approve of. It is a plan that is fair to all and yet will enable the small operator to stay in business, thus helping our school districts, small towns, rural power systems and solving the employment problem.

Everyone to whom I have talked about this plan seems to think it has merits. That is, all except those in our local ASC office. They say, "Why support some people's prices at 100 per cent and others at less?" But I say that the idea of allotments is supposed to be to eliminate surpluses. Then the man who is the cause of the surplus should be the one to be penalized. You would not penalize a whole community just because one man stole a cow; neither should you penalize the small operator for the large operator's surplus.

Labor keeps saying that if they get higher wages, the farmer will get more for his products. But every time they get a raise, they scream more about the high cost of living and blame it on the farmer. But they do not stop to realize that they are increasing the cost of consumer goods every time they get a raise.

For example, if labor gets a 10-cent-an-hour raise, a product that goes through 10 processes is automatically having its production cost increased by a dollar per hour. Really the farmer is entitled to a guaranteed yearly wage just as much as labor. But we are not asking for that. We are merely asking for enough to keep going.

The large operator doesn't need help. He is self-sufficient. Most of them do not even ask for it. If they were not making a profit, they wouldn't be big operators. But they do want controls so that they can squeeze out the small operator. That is why they will vote for quotas when it comes up and then intentionally overplant. I have talked to more than one who says that they can make more by planting what they want and paying the penalty than they can by staying within their allotment and taking support. That proves that they are making more profit at 50 per cent of parity than the small operator could at 90 per cent.

I know some will say, then let us eliminate the small, inefficient operator. But they must remember that this country was founded by those people. And that Hitler, Stalin and the rest of the dictators got their start by preaching and enforcing efficiency. I say that we must sacrifice efficiency when it means the maintaining of our freedom and liberty as it always does. Of course Big Government doesn't like independent voters. It wants everyone to be just a cog in the wheel. That would make us more or less like robots controlled by the big wheels. That is what our ancestors left Europe for in the centuries past. Let us do everything we can to preserve the freedom of the individual.

Nixon Is Nominated Chief Whipping Boy

CHICAGO — Early signs suggest that the No. 1 whipping boy of the Democrats next year will be Vice President Richard Nixon. Continued peace and prosperity will be massive obstacles in the path of a party determined to regain the White House. The other targets must be found, influence peddling in high places, officials who didn't get all the way out of their businesses . . . But there's always Nixon. Few Dems will rap Ike, but it'll be open season on Nixon.

Not all the Democratic chieftains agree with this strategy. A consistently picked-on man sometimes generates tremendous sympathy and support. Col. Jake Arvey, the man who did so much to bring Stevenson to the fore in the party, felt that if the 1952 elections had been held the day after Nixon made his historic appearance on television to explain his finances the GOP would have won by an even greater margin than it did.

"Every woman in the country would have voted for him," the colonel grumbled at the time.

In his cultivated duel with the press the other day, Adlai Stevenson seemed to be saying, in connection with the importance that he placed on the role of the vice president, that the GOP was remiss in choosing Nixon. Paul Butler used no such kid gloves.

"Any candidate we have would be a better candidate than Nixon," Butler said. He went on to say that Nixon called the Democratic party the party of treason and that if the Eisenhower-Nixon team runs again the question of the President's health will be a major issue of the campaign because of Nixon's presence.

But Butler seems sure that Eisenhower will not run. At least he seems surer than Stevenson, who may have set the tone for Democratic treatment of Eisenhower through the next year. Nobody here seems to have anything against Ike.

Speaking of Sen. Lyndon Johnson's heart attack, Stevenson volunteered earnestly to "hope and pray" that useful activities of all who have suffered heart' attacks are not limited, and "most specifically" he included the President. He hadn't expected the President to run again, he added, but from the tone of reports many people believe he will, and Stevenson went on to imply that he could believe it himself.

Butler, who talks much tougher, said that when he first predicted months ago that Ike would not run again he based his opinion on Mrs. Eisenhower's health. Now he bases it on the President's.

Jeary To Ask Vine Paving Wait

A request for temporary postponement of Vine St. paving from 56th to 70th will be made to the City Council next Monday by Mayor Clark Jeary.

Reason for the request, the mayor said, will be to reconsider the width of the paving project.

The mayor said that sometime during the next week, he will ask for a meeting of the engineering office, planning commission, and the police department to consider the paving plan. He said a determination will be made if the paving contract, already delivered, could be reconsidered for reviewing the paving width.

Jeary said Bartholomew & Associates recommended in their street survey a wider paving area for the Vine St. stretch from 48th to 56th, but not for 56th to 70th.

The mayor said the reconsideration action will be taken as part of a general planning for street improvements this coming spring. He said a less-wide paving of Vine would leave more funds for other streets in the city.

The mayor said surveys taken in 1951 and '52 don't necessarily apply to present problems because of modern day changes that may be needed in place of the findings at that time.

Missouri R. Shuttle Barge Service Slated

SIOUX CITY, Ia. (AP) — Shuttle barge service on the Missouri River between Omaha and Sioux City is expected to start next year.

Two Sioux City men testified to that effect Wednesday at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on an application of Federal Barge Lines, Inc. of St. Louis for authority to extend service from Omaha to here.

P. R. Wigton, Sioux City traffic commissioner, and John C. Kelly, chairman of the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce Waterway Commission, said their city is competitive with Omaha and that such water transportation is essential to attract new industries here.

Federal Barge Lines now operates regularly as far as Omaha on the Missouri River.

Railroad opposition to the application is expected to be heard before the hearing ends Thursday.

Falls City May Get Wholesale Plant

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP) — The possibility of establishing a meat packing plant in Falls City is under consideration.

Judd Linscott and Lawrence Wiedmaier, owners of a wholesale meat firm, discussed the possibility of a plant costing $150,000 to $175,000 with Chamber of Commerce directors this week.

It was tentatively proposed that a corporation be formed to sell stock or bonds for erection of the plant and purchase of equipment and that the property be leased to Linscott and Wiedmaier with an option to purchase the stock or bonds.

One Person Can Apply Artificial Respiration To Two At Once

OMAHA (AP) — The University of Nebraska College of Medicine has developed a new technique for artificial respiration which makes it possible for one operator to apply it to two individuals simultaneously with little more effort than is required for one.

The method is a modification of the Holger Nielsen or back-pressure-arm-lift method. It was first suggested by M.M. Mehring, safety supervisor for the Consumers Public Power District Columbus, Neb.

Extensive Tests

After extensive laboratory tests, Dr. A. L. Bennett of the physiology and pharmacology department of the medical school reported that cases of multiple drownings and electrocution, in which panic and indecision result, "could well have happy endings" if more persons were to learn the new two-victim method.

Dr. Bennett said that when such an emergency arises, the rescuer must first place the two victims on a prone position "on their stomachs" with the inside arm of each person extended forward. The rescuer, then in a kneeling position, straddles the extended inside arms of the victims. Next, he places one open hand on the back of each subject and rocks slowly forward, applying about 35 to 40 pounds of pressure on the back of each subject, in the case of adults.

After gently releasing pressure on the back, the rescuer then grasps the outside elbow of each subject and pulls upward and forward to a point which slightly raises the outside of each chest. The respiration cycle is completed by dropping the arms. Complete respiration cycles are continued at the rate of 12 times per minute or one complete respiration every five seconds.

Thornton Predicts Good Year

Despite Squeeze For Cattlemen

VALENTINE, Neb. (AP)— The cattleman is caught in a squeeze and it's going to take a little time to take care of the situation, former Gov. Thornton of Colorado said Thursday.

Gov. Thornton made his comment to a reporter as he arrived in Valentine to address the annual fall regional convention of the Nebraska Stock Growers Assn.

"Good Year Ahead"

However, Thornton predicted that 1956 would be a good year. He said cutting unnecessary costs, and pushing the sale of more beef both at home and abroad appears to hold the answer for stockmen.

Morning speakers included Dr. Carleton Rogers of Elgin, Ill., a clergyman and traveler, who gave his impressions of South America gained in a visit there recently, and Dr. Tom Dowe, beef cattle nutritionist from the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

Ralph Baker of Valentine, general meeting chairman, presided and Mayor Claude Currie of Valentine welcomed the group.

The afternoon program included Thornton's address and reports by Earl H. Monahan, Hyannis, chairman of the research committee; and Gerald J. McGinley, Ogallala, chairman of the building committee; Ida Paxton of Thedford, president of the Cowbelles, ladies auxiliary of the group; and Forrest S. Lee, Brownlee, chairman of committees.

'Rapp Worked With Disposal Plant At Crete'

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, Thursday said William F. Rapp Jr., an employe of the department's sanitation division, charged with placing matter harmful to fish in the Big Blue River, worked with the Crete Disposal Plant in an effort to alleviate the fly menace at the plant's filter beds.

"No crime has been committed," Dr. Rogers said. "There was no intent to commit any crime. We believe a public employe has certain immunity when carrying out the duties imposed on him as an employe of the public."

Rapp was charged with the misdemeanor in District Court by Wilber. The complaint alleges that the offense occurred on Aug. 31. Arraignment has tentatively been set for next Monday.

Dr. Rogers said Bernard Gradwohl of Lincoln and John Mekota of Crete have been retained as special counsel to defend Rapp.

Argentina's New Government Says Nationwide Strike Called Off

. . . Walkout Ends In Failure

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's new provisional government announced Thursday night the deposed leaders of the General Confederation of Labor (CGT) have called off the nationwide general strike.

The announcement said the old CGT chiefs "resolved unanimously to cease immediately" the three-day-old walkout. It was issued after a conference between top CGT figures and Labor Minister Raul Migone.

Before the talk began, the labor leaders said they planned to discuss with Migone the conditions under which the strike would be ended.

The strike apparently ended in failure. Aimed at strengthening the hand of labor chiefs who became powerful under ex-President Juan D. Peron, the walkout backfired, sealing their doom and heightening the influence and prestige of the new government.

Leaders Meet

Before the talks with Migone, leaders of the once all-powerful labor organization met in the government-occupied CGT national headquarters building in downtown Buenos Aires.

Luis Natalini and Andres Framini, CGT secretaries general until Wednesday night when the government fired all the officers and seized the organization, called the meeting.

Natalini told reporters the meeting was aimed at "reaching patriotic solutions, leaving aside all personal interests." The labor chief admitted the strike steadily lost force as more and more workers returned to their jobs.

The walkout appeared to be the final test between Peron supporters fighting to retain control of the CGT and Aramburu's regime which decided to sweep every vestige of Peronism out of the labor organization which has claimed six-million members.

The first provisional president to take over after Peron's downfall, Eduardo Lonardi tried to conciliate and negotiate with the old-line Peronistas and they badgered his six-week regime constantly, threatening two nationwide strikes.

Aramburu, on the other hand, faced up to the CGT squarely when it called a strike less than 24 hours after he took office last Sunday.

Practical Gift

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Dutch gift to flood-stricken Mexico is a consignment of know-how in flood prevention. Two engineers from the low countries who know probably more than any other about seaside floods have arrived to work in the Navy Ministry and at Tampico and other ravaged areas.

Studying—A Family Project

This entire Turkish family, in Lincoln for a year, devote much of their time to studying. The father, Dr. Orhan Duzgunes is taking advanced work at the Ag College. His wife, who also holds a Ph.D., will soon begin research on virus carrying insects. Arda (left) is in Northeast Junior High and Nejat (seated) is in the kindergarten at Clinton. All speak English fluently except Nejat, who understands it, but has a little trouble speaking it. (Star Staff Photo)

Turkish Prof Studying Here —And So Is His Whole Family

By ELLIS RALL
Star Staff Writer

Young Nejat is anxious to return to Turkey to his friends.

Nejat is the five-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Orhan Duzgunes (pronounced dus-ga-nesh), a Turkish professor at Ankara University now studying at the University of Nebraska Ag College with 21 other Turkish professors.

With him is his wife, who also has a Ph.D., and sons Nejat and Arda, 14, or "Art" as his Northeast Junior High chums have tagged him.

Curly-headed Nejat, a Clinton kindergarten student, is ready to go back to his friends. He hasn't been in Lincoln long enough to become acquainted with playmates, his parents said.

Brother Better

Unlike Nejat, his older brother "Art" is more proficient in English and speaks almost without an accent. Nejat, who was born in New York when his parents were in the U.S. before, understands fairly well the language, but has a little difficulty speaking it, his parents explained.

The family resides at 3256 Holdrege which is close to the Ag College for Dr. Duzgunes. His wife plans to start research work soon on virus transmitting insects, particularly plant lice (aphids) mites and those causing virus on lettuce.

Among the visiting Turks there are four families included with four children. However, only the Duzgunes children are old enough to attend school.

Dr. Duzgunes said he liked the instructional program in which he is participating. He said he likes the Ag College system of teaching and research and it should prove valuable in helping develop a similar system in Turkey.

Commenting on the differences he noted between U.S. and Turkish students he said that in the U.S. most students work to earn their own expenses while in school. In Turkey, he said, this is not so, except for the Agriculture school where students during the summer work on farms.

During the three-year program which was initiated this year, the University College of Agriculture expects to provide training for between 75 and 80 Turkish professors, Harry G. Gould, co-ordinator of the program, said. Gould formerly was associate director of the Agricultural Extension Service at the University.

Studying System

Gould explained that each visiting professor from the University of Ankara has a Ph.D. degree. Their purpose here, he said, is to study the Land Grant College system and methods of research, teaching and extension work.

The training, in turn, will better qualify the group when they return to the University of Ankara and some to the Ataturk University, a land grant institution in which the University of Nebraska is helping to develop, he said.

The professors, with three exceptions, will study at Ag College for one year. Some will go to other schools for courses the local school does not offer, but they will still remain under the administration of the University of Nebraska, Gould said.

Turkish participants from Ankara University, their general field, field of study and length of study follow:

Agronomy: Dr. Sahap Elci, legume breeding, one year; Dr. Hifzi Guner, soil management, one year;

Animal Husbandry: Dr. Sukru Bulgurlu, experimental work with beef cattle; six months; Dr. Resit Sonmez (now at College Station, Tex.) sheep and wool production and improved feeding and marketing, one year; Dr. Kemal Gogus, animal nutrition, two years; Dr. Orhan Duzgunes, animal science, one year;

Feed Chemistry: Dr. Remzi Akyildiz, feed chemistry research, one year;

Horticulture: Dr. Kazim Bayrakter, seed production, greenhouse problems and vegetable marketing, one year; Dr. Kamil Ilisulu, (in Western Nebraska) potato research and production, one year;

Entomology: Dr. Akif Kansu, entomology as related to plant production, one year;

Rural Economics: Dr. Ali Aras, farm management, records and accounting, one year; Dr. Kazim Sapmaz, marketing of agricultural products, one year;

Engineering: Dr. Halis Alagoz, irrigation, one year; Dr. Suleyman Kadaficiler, power machinery and equipment, one year; Dr. Rasim Dogus, agricultural machinery, one year.

Extension and Extension Information: Dr. Cemil Calguner, ag extension and information, one year;

Home Economics: Dr. Rezan Sahinkaya, home economics, two years;

Veterinarians: Dr. Sati Baran, (now in Columbus, O.) pathology of nutritional diseases, one year; Dr. Osman Hasa, tissue culture techniques, one year; Dr. Mustafa Temizer, (now at Sac City and Sioux City, Ia. for six weeks), animal surgery, one year; Dr. Mehmet Gurun, cattle diseases, one year and Dr. Mehmet Sandikcioglu, sheep breeding, one year.

Widow Is Denied Right To Adopt Father Of Four

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — A wealthy 76-year-old childless widow was denied Thursday the right to adopt a 33-year-old father of four children.

"Maybe some day you will understand that what I am doing is for your own protection," Superior Court Judge Mark A. Sullivan Jr. told Mrs. Mariam D. Hartman.

Mrs. Hartman, of Verona, is the widow of Fred Hartman, a General Electric Co. executive who died a year ago. Court testimony indicated she is worth about $200,000.

In her application to adopt Arthur Gloss, of Little Falls, Mrs. Hartman stated that Gloss and his wife had been kind to her and had helped her around the house.

Sullivan said that Mrs Hartman had recently suffered a mental illness and he doubted if she fully understood the nature of her request although two physicians testified she did.

Red China To Release 3 Yanks 'Expeditiously'

TOKYO (Friday) (AP) — Communist China Thursday ordered the release and deportation of three of the 19 jailed Americans it promised at Geneva in September to free "expeditiously."

"A Peiping radio broadcast identified them as:

Mrs. Homer V. Bradshaw, New York City, a medical missionary whose husband also is held by the Communists.

The Rev. Marcellus White, 46, Waltham, Mass., a Passionist missionary imprisoned by the Reds in February 1952.

The Rev. Justin Garvey, 40, Union City, N.J., and Covina, Calif., a Passionist Missionary jailed in December 1951.

Two of the 19 Americans were released earlier

The three ordered freed Thursday probably will cross the border to the British crown colony of Hong Kong shortly since all have been held in South China.

Mrs. Laura Lau, an American missionary released last month, said on her arrival in Hong Kong that the Bradshaws were being held in Canton.

In Poor Health

Mrs. Lau said both were in poor health, and that Bradshaw still was in prison. Mrs. Lau had taken care of Mrs. Bradshaw at her home.

The Peiping radio said Mrs. Bradshaw "was previously out on bail for medical attention." She and her husband have been missionaries in China for a quarter of a century. They were jailed in March 1951.

Two priests have been in prison at Yuanling, in Hunan Province about 400 miles north of Canton.

The terse Peiping broadcast said "The release in advance of two other American criminals, Marcellus White and Justin Gravey, has been announced and their deportation ordered."

In Covina, Calif., the mother of the Rev. Justin Garvey cried "Thank God," then dropped the telephone and fainted yesterday when informed her imprisoned son had been ordered released and deported by Red China.

Mrs. Martin Garvey, 67, quickly revived, however, under ministrations of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Harrington, with whom she lives in West Covina Mrs. Harrington wept with joy.

"It has been so long," Mrs. Garvey said. "But now we can hope to have him home for the holidays. This is truly a fine Thanksgiving season."

She has not seen her son, a Catholic priest and missionary, for seven years. She received a letter from him last May but it was a stilted, formal affair, she said.

Pen Inmate Dies; Heart Attack Said Apparent Cause

A 46-year-old Nebraska Penitentiary inmate, Grey Hudson, died Thursday night in the prison infirmary after he was apparently stricken by a heart attack.

Results of an autopsy made Thursday night will be released Friday, according to Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp, who investigated the death. Karnopp said, however, that Dr. B. A. Finkle, Penitentiary physician, thought the cause of death was a heart attack.

"In view of the recent circumstances" at the institution, Karnopp said the autopsy was made "just to ease everybody concerned." He apparently referred to inmate-caused riots and a fire in recent months.

Mr. Hudson, who was serving 10 years for burglary after being sentenced from Douglas County in 1952, was a native of McHenry, Ky. Karnopp said prison records indicated there were no known survivors.

The Sheriff said Mr. Hudson had been active all day Thursday but became sick at the evening meal and was allowed to return to his cell. When his fellow prisoners returned, Mr. Hudson complained of a pain in the stomach and chest.

He was taken by guards to the infirmary, where he died a short time later.

Milwaukee Union Official Indicted For False Denial

CHICAGO (INS)—A 30-year-old Milwaukee union official was indicted Thursday on federal charges of falsely denying a Communist back-ground in an official affidavit.

Federal Judge P. Barnes of Chicago issued a bench warrant for arrest of John Joseph Killian of Milwaukee. Bond was set at $10,000.

The indictment returned by the November Grand Jury charges Killian with two counts of violating the Taft-Hartley Law. Conviction of either count can mean five years' imprisonment or $10,000 fine or both.

Killian, living with his wife, Gloria, and one child, is trustee of Local 1111 of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America. He formerly was a member of the local executive board.

PORTLAND, Ore. (INS) — Mrs. Nan Wood Honeyman, formerly Oregon collector of customs and member of Congress, confirmed that she has been appointed assistant to the editor and publisher of The World, Portland's proposed new tabloid daily newspaper.

Small School Districts Offer Only Meager Programs, Chisholm Tells State Educators

Present school district organizations in many communities consist of such small areas that they are unable to offer a curriculum broader than the most meager program, Dr. Leslie Chicholm, professor of school administration at the University of Nebraska, told 140 educators Thursday evening.

He addressed the joint conference of the Nebraska Association of School Administrators and the University Teachers College's department of secondary education being held on the NU campus.

He said: "Traditional programs, which so many of our schools are forced to confine their offerings to, do not meet the desires of a majority of parents and it leaves the majority of children unstimulated."

He listed these advantages of proper district organization:

Schools can offer a broader program of activities, which will give pupils an opportunity to broaden their leadership and initiative.

Better school-community relationships because "Many of our communities today are considerably less vital than they could be because they are chopped up into literally a dozen independent parts or districts."

Considerable contributions to various phases of teacher welfare, since "It will help develop more equitable salary schedules, sick leaves, and retirement."

Helps Local Control

Strengthen and preserve local control over the school.

Dr. Chisholm concluded, "At the present time less than 10 per cent of Nebraskas' school districts are organized so that parents have a legal say about the education of their children all the way through the common schools. In a state that prides itself on local initiative and local control we have stood by and permitted circumstances to seriously undermine the thing about which we propose to be proud."

Dean F. E. Henzlick of Teachers College spoke at the opening session Thursday and Nathan J. Gold, Lincoln businessman, addressed the luncheon meeting.

Four discussion groups were held during the afternoon, and the group attended an open house at the newly completed University High School.

The two-day conference will end Friday evening.

Bids Opened On $2 Million In Road Work

An exceptionally large number of bidders slowed down tabulations on the apparent low bids on an estimated $2,000,000 in highway construction opened at the Capitol Thursday.

On 4.5 miles of asphaltic concrete north of Lexington the apparent low bidder was Missouri Valley Construction Co. at $128,839 and $19,507 for culverts.

On 12.9 miles between Columbus and Creston, Sargent Construction Co. of Sargent, was apparently low for grading at $46,860, Norfolk Bridge Construction Co., Norfolk, at $30,494 for culverts and $38,896 for bridges.

Nelson Quarries, Inc., Auburn, appeared low on rock for four miles north of Elk Creek at $13,692.

Lee & Johnson, Inc., Sioux City, Ia., at $5,141 appeared low on 3.7 miles of gravel west of St. Helena and Stalp Brothers, West Point, on 3.3 miles of gravel between Lindy and Niobrara.

Included in the uncomputed bids is 9.5 miles of asphaltic concrete surfacing between Wayne and Wakefield. This location has been the subject of controversy for a couple of years.

Truck Rate Hearing Continued To Friday

The Railway Commission continued all day Thursday the hearing on the application of Nebraska Motor Carriers for an increase in rates on minimum shipments. The carriers completed their presentation and opponents of the increase began presenting their testimony.

A recess was taken at 5 p.m. and the hearing is expected to be completed by the Commission Friday by noon.

Boy, 13, Admits Killing Neighbor; Clears Pal

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma County authorities Thursday said a 13-year-old boy admitted tearfully to the accidental slaying of a neighbor woman, and thus cleared his 16-year-old companion of a first degree manslaughter charge.

It came four months after the fatal shooting of Mrs. Mabel Carroll, 57, who was found dead in her home last July.

STANTON DELAPLANE

POSTCARD

The Trastevere section of Rome is the workingman's district. An ancient part of crumbling medieval buildings where candles burn beneath the Madonna over the door.

There are no sidewalks and the streets are cobbled. The restaurants are inexpensive and the food is excellent.

It has become chic among the elegant Via Veneto set to cross the Tiber and eat with the working classes. And Alfred's in Trastevere and Cisterna are almost as crowded as Passetta's or Capriccio's up on the hills of the rich.

I went over with Miss Gaby Lalonde, a French-Canadian journalist, who said Alfredo's and Cisterna were for tourists. Instead, she chose Garibaldina on Via Garabaldi. Near the Roman gate where countrymen brought their wine to be weighed and taxed as it entered the Eternal City.

And this is where I learned about spaghetti.

☆ ☆ ☆

"This is spaghetti a la carbonara," said the owner. "It is the way the carbonari make it. The charcoal burners."

"The spaghetti is put in boiling water with a little salt. This is important. If you put it in before the water boils, it cooks to much. You boil it about 10 minutes but it depends on the quality of the spaghetti.

"You should take out a piece and cut it on your finger. If it shows a little white dot of white on the inside, let it boil more while you count to 100 and it is done.

"Americans cook their spaghetti too long. They make it like rice. Spaghetti should be firm.

While the spaghetti is cooking, you fry little pieces of bacon. You put this in a deep dish and beat up one egg for each person. Put the bacon with a little grease, a little oil, pepper and parmesan cheese with the eggs.

"Now lift out the spaghetti with two forks so that it drains lightly but doesn't stick together. Put the spaghetti in hot and stir it around. The spaghetti cooks the eggs as it is coated. Then serve it quickly."

☆ ☆ ☆

It was excellent spaghetti and was served with white wine. Afterwards we went over to the square of Santa Maria in Trastevere where the washing hung out the upper windows of the antique buildings and a great fountain sent waterfalls into the clouded moonlight.

There is a little bar on the corner, next to Alfredo's and we had the little half cups of black Italian coffee. An elderly lady came by picking up cigarette ends. Miss Lalonde asked her how it went.

"I am doing the misery," she said. Meaning she was doing life the hard way. We asked her to have coffee.

"Well, maybe I will," she said.

Miss Lalonde said the cigarette ends would be cut open. The tobacco would be mixed and rolled into cheap cigarettes to be sold one at a time.

After a while, some musicians came in for coffee. They said life in Italy was hard and poor. One musician was 25 and, in a country where children go to work at 8, had just managed to find his first job.

He worked as an iron monger and his hands were rough and dirty and badly broken. He made a joke that he couldn't get a manicure. When he showed his hands, the girl ran away.

But he was terribly ashamed of his talented musical hands. And he held them together or put them in his pockets. And about midnight, we all shook hands and we went out to the car beside the fountain and drove through the narrow cobbled streets. Across the Tiber and back up the Roman hill where everybody has manicures and jobs and whole packages of fresh cigarettes.

GATES SEEKS MANDATE RECALL

Lawrence Gates of Omaha, under six-year sentence to the State Penitentiary for auto theft in Pawnee County in February, 1954, filed a motion in State Supreme Court Thursday to recall the mandate.

The mandate, directing the District Court to carry out the judgment, was issued from the Supreme Court Monday, two days after a motion for rehearing was denied.

Gates was tried for taking a car belonging to Mrs. H. D. Mosteller. But he contends in the motion to recall the mandate that Wilbur Gates and Gerald Gates were the persons who actually committed the crime.

He offers statements taken from Gerald Gates in California and Wilbur Gates at the Iowa Men's Reformatory in support of this contention.

Lawrence Gates asked for a 60-day delay in enforcement of the mandate in order to permit time to appeal to the State Pardon board at its next meeting.

The Supreme Court noted in affirming Gates sentence that a car allegedly belonging to him was found abandoned near the Mosteller place.

The Mosteller car was taken about thet ime a Liquor store at DuBois was broken into.

Battery Additive Ads 'Not Proved False'—Prober

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Trade Commissioner examiner ruled Thursday the government has "failed to prove" that advertising claims for the controversial battery additive AD-X2 are false.

Hearing Examiner William L. Pack ordered dismissal of an FTC complaint against Jess Ritchie and Pioneers, Inc., the Oakland, Calif., firm which makes the additive. Pack's decision is subject to review by the five-man commission.

If the commission sustains its examiner, Ritchie will have won a seven-year battle against government attempts to crack down on his product. He claims AD-X2 will rejuvenate listless but mechanically sound automobile and other storage batteries.

During the stormy course of the case, Dr. Allen V. Astin was fired as director of the Bureau of Standards after the Bureau had called the additive no good. A major reason given by Secretary of Commerce Week's for Astin's discharge was that the Bureau's finding caused Pioneers, Inc., to suffer "severely at the hands of bureaucrats."

A few weeks after he was fired in 1953, however, and after vigorous protests by fellow scientists, Astin was restored to his post.

A nine-man committee of scientists was created by Weeks to make a study of the Bureau of Standard's operations. The committee commended the Bureau's test work in its report and supported its finding that AD-X2 "is without merit."

In June 1953, the Senate Small Business Committee opened an investigation of the case and made a report favorable to Ritchie.

Postal Fraud Studied

Meanwhile, a postal fraud complaint had been made against Ritchie, based on the Bureau's findings This order was suspended at Weeks' request and eventually revoked in August, 1953.

The scientific storm stirred up by the whole case is commonly held to have led to the resignation of Craig R. Shaeffer, Iowa pen manufacturer, as assistant secretary of commerce. Shaeffer, whose job included supervision of the Bureau of Standards, sided strongly with Ritchie in the dispute.

Reviewing evidence on whether AD-X2 will make batteries last longer and operate better, Pack said that "considering the record as a whole . . . the (false advertising) complaint has not been sustained by the greater weight of the evidence."

'55 'Biggest' Year In U.S. Business

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Weeks said Thursday 1955 will be the "biggest" year American business has ever had and "the first six months of next year will be on a still higher platform."

Weeks, here to confer with President Eisenhower, made the forecast when asked for comment on Adlai E. Stevenson's statement in Chicago that "peace and prosperity," is only a political slogan.

"From my viewpoint, it's an American slogan," Weeks added.

U.S. 'Cordial'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)— U.S. Ambassador Albert Nufer delivered a note to Foreign Minister Luis A. Podesta Costa declaring the United States "will be pleased to maintain cordial and friendly relations with the Argentine government."

The note replied to an Argentine government communication earlier this week informing all foreign envoys here that Maj. Gen. Pedro Aramburu had replaced Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi as provisional president. The United States and most other foreign governments recognized the revolutionary regime during Lonardi's tenure.

Johnson Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — James Price Johnson, 61, one of the pioneers of modern jazz piano playing, died in a hospital Thursday after an illness of several months.

Johnson, who also was a composer, had appeared in many night clubs throughout the nation. He made innumerable records, many still treasured by jazz collectors.

For The Team

ANCONA, Italy (INS) — Twelve Italian teenagers were charged with organizing a fake religious procession. They're alleged to have walked through the streets of Ancona dressed as priests, sprinkling "holy" water on passersby, before asking for money. The boys told police they needed the money to buy a new football for a local team.

Committee Talks To Control Board

A Legislative Council committee headed by Sen. Don McGinley of Ogallala spent all day Thursday discussing with the Board of Control its operating procedures. The board has supervision over 17 state institutions.

The committee was authorized by the Legislature to recommend whether the Board of Control system should be abandoned, changed or left as it is.

Previously the committee met with Dr. G. Lee Sandritter, who was resigning as superintendent of Hastings State hospital, to get his views on improving care for the mentally ill.

HULL, Que. (AP) — Fire which swept through the upper floors of a three-story multiple home Thursday took five lives and sent six persons to the hospital.

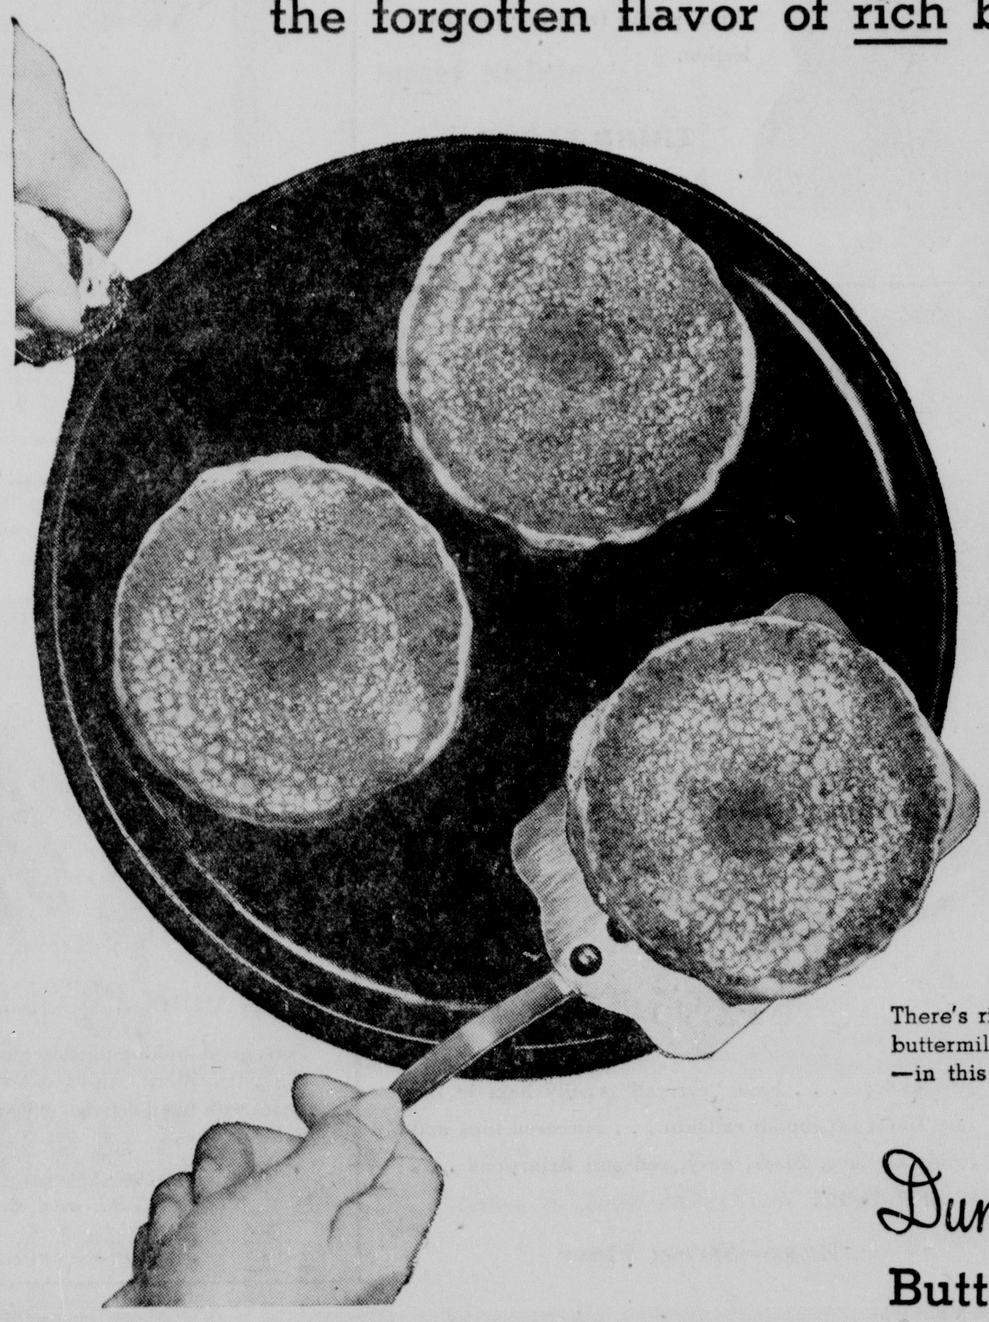
FOUND: by Duncan Hines—the one recipe that gives you the forgotten flavor of rich buttermilk pancakes



More and richer buttermilk than in any other mix! 12 ingredients—many you can't find at your grocer's

DUNCAN HINES America's Foremost Authority on Good Eating

From a well-thumbed page of an old cookbook, Duncan Hines took the recipe for pancakes as they used to be, when cooks took all the time and trouble to make really fine "eating." He put this recipe into a mix . . . so that now, off your griddle, come pancakes such as you've probably never tasted.

Run your finger down this recipe and you'd find ingredients not on your shelf, or your grocer's. Five—yes, five—different flours, including the finest-milled wheat flour usually reserved for cakes. Special syrup-flavored sugar. And, of course, buttermilk because it tenderizes the gluten in flour. The really rich, butter-flecked kind farm folks know as "churning-day" buttermilk.

Wouldn't you like to sit right down now and taste Duncan Hines buttermilk pancakes? Better get a package today—and enjoy a "forgotten flavor"!

There's rich "churning-day" buttermilk—and plenty of it—in this 12-ingredient mix

Health Needs --First

Insurance For All Most Important, Says Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman told the American Public Health Assn Thursday night that universal health insurance topped the list of needs in America's public health program.

"No matter what we do to develop medical research and provide for more hospitals and doctors, we must get to the basic need of universal public health insurance," Truman said in an address prepared for delivery at the presentation of the Albert Lasker awards for medical achievements. In addition to the universal health insurance, he said, hospital construction must be accelerated, a doctor shortage must be overcome and medical research must be promoted.

The former chief executive said present health insurance "covers only 15 per cent of the more than 10 billion dollars of medical bills of the American people, and eight million American families are in debt for medical care."

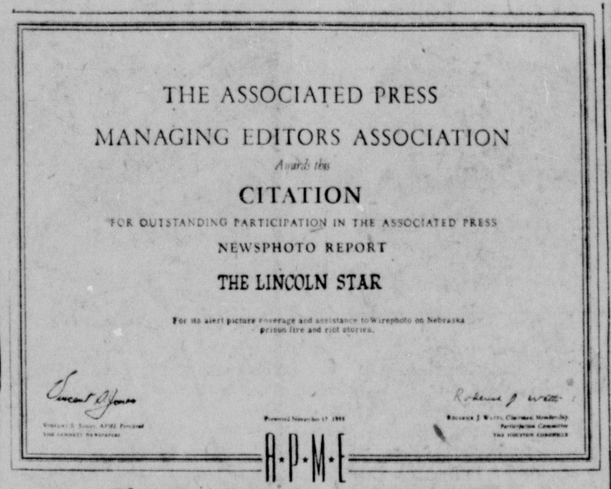
'Responsibility'

"Federal, state and local governments have a joint and serious responsibility to meet this situation."

Truman said the House Interstate Commerce Committee in 1953 reported it had received testimony that the annual cost of illness to the nation was roughly equivalent to the total income tax revenue, or 30 billion dollars annually.

"We must accelerate our hospital construction, and we must accelrate it to meet the conditions with which we now are faced. Our population is expanding while many of our existing facilities are becoming obsolete."

The doctor shortage, he said, had become worse since the end of the war.



The Star Gets Citation From AP

The Lincoln Star has been awarded this citation from the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. for "outstanding participation" in the AP news service with its photographic coverage of the Nebraska Men's Reformatory riot Sept. 9 and earlier disturbances at the State Penitentiary.

It was published prominently throughout the country.The Star pictures were shared with AP members coast to coast by means of AP Wirephoto facilities.

Award of the citation was announced at Colorado Springs, Colo., where AP managing editors currently are in convention. Alan J. Gould, AP executive editor, said in a letter to James E. Lawrence, editor of The Star: 'It is with great pleasure that we send you this citation from the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. for outstanding participation in the AP news service. Newspapers like yours, which so often go far beyond the call of membership obligation to share their triumphs and enterprise with other members, make the Associated Press what it is today: tops. AP men everywhere salute you and your staff."

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Sterling H. McCaw, managing editor of The Norfolk Daily News, is new state chairman of the Nebraska AP Newspaper Members Assn.

He was elected at the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. convention here to succeed Harry Contos, editor of the North Platte Telegraph-Bulletin.

The Nebraska news executives chose Joe R. Seacrest, associate editor of The Lincoln Journal, for vice-chairman.

North Platte was selected for next year's meeting place.

E. E. Makiesky, Omaha, in charge of the Nebraska AP, reported on Nebraska news activities.

The Managing Editors Assn. cited 77 newspapers, including The Lincoln Star and The Lincoln Journal, and two broadcast stations for exceptional co-operation in news participation.

$100,000 Bellevue Fire Linked With Burglary Of Store

BELLEVUE, Neb. (AP)—Wednesday's $100,000 lumber yard fire has been blamed on arson and linked with a $10,000 burglary of a jewelry store the same night.

Fire Chief Willis Baer said the investigation now is concentrating on the burglary. "When that is solved, the whole thing will be wrapped up," he asserted.

Baer and two deputies from the state fire marshall's office described the fire as arson after a forenoon of investigation.

Chief Baer said the color of the flames and the manner in which they blazed up indicated that the fire at the Crawford Lumber Co., was the result of an inflammable agent.

He said it now has been determined that the fire ties in with the burglary of the Wilson Jewelry store which apparently was looted while officials were at the fire. The store is across the street from the police station.

Nine Hunters Saved From Utah Storm

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Rescuers plucked nine Utah deer hunters from a blizzard-battered northern Utah mountain cabin Thursday just before a new snowstorm struck the area.

Safe in their own homes, the nine —including a woman and a young boy whose mother had given him up for lost—recalled a series of "lucky" events that enabled them to come down from the mountain alive after a three-day ordeal of snow and temperatures of more than 24 below zero.

The hunters were brought from the 9,100-foot high Monte Cristo forest ranger station. The new snowstorm had started before they got down. Forest Ranger Clark Anderson, one of the rescuers, said, "Another three or four hours delay would have meant the hunters would have had to spend another day or two on the peak." Rescuers reached the cabin in trucks and road-clearing equipment.

Most Thankful

Mrs. Vee N. Holt of Salt Lake City was one of the most thankful the hunters were saved. She had thought her 14-year-old son, Brent, was lost in the snow.

"I had given up Brent for good," she wept. "And now I'm so thankful he's back. I didn't think there was a possibility he could be alive —especially when his name wasn't given among the hunters at the cabin."

Brent's name had been garbled when a list of those at the ranger station was transmitted by radio.

'Playboy' Blasts 'Censor' Power By Postmaster

WASHINGTON (AP)—The magazine Playboy went to court Thursday in what its lawyers said is a challenge of the "censorship power claimed by Postmaster Summerfield over the press and public."

The attorneys said the magazine, published in Chicago, had notice from the Post Office Department that its application for a second class mailing permit was turned down. They said the reason wasn't clearly stated and there had never been a hearing, which they said the law requires.

4 Deer Hunters Feared Drowned

EAGLE RIVER, Mich. (INS)—Four deer hunters were feared drowned after Michigan state police found their overturned boat Thursday in Gratiot Lake in the northernmost peninsula of the state.

The hunters, missing since Wednesday, were Danny D. R. Nowak, 39, and Edward Van Popering, 50, both of Grand Rapids, Ted Lemanski, 36, of Spring Hill, Mich., and Leonard Gillette, 50, of Homewood, Ill.

Keweenaw County police and sheriff's deputies were reported dragging the lake for the bodies.

Reds Demand A U.N. Seat For Mongolia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (INS) —Russia threatened Thursday to veto 13 free nations seeking membership in the United Nations unless the West agrees to the admission of Communist Outer Mongolia to the U.N.

Soviet first deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov told a news conference that Russia will agree only to the admission of the 13 plus four Communist satellites and Outer Mongolia — or none at all.

He said the Soviet Union will vote for the admission of all 18 if the United States and other Western powers agree to the inclusion of Mongolia in the group. He asserted that the Red Asian satellite "deserves equal consideration with the 17 other states."

American Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said last Sunday the U.S. will not oppose entry of four East European Communist states but had misgivings over the qualifications of Outer Mongolia to hold a seat in the world body. The four European states are Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania.

9-Year Deadlock

Consultations are currently underway at U.N. headquarters among the U.S., Russia, Britain, France, Nationalist China and other states on the problem of Mongolia — final obstacle to a solution of the nine-year-old membership deadlock.

RESIGNATION MARRED BY DISCORD

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Comment On Glassford's Resignation

Comments on Coach Bill Glassford's resignation Thursday included:

J. LeRoy Welsh, Omaha president of the Board of Regents:

"Chancellor Hardin has just informed me this afternoon that Coach Bill Glassford has not elected to pick up the option for five additional years in his contract with the University of Nebraska.

"It is my understanding that this is solely Mr. Glassford's decision and on which I am sure the Board of Regents will honor.

"I personally want to wish Mr. Glassford well in his future endeavors and I feel sure that all Nebraskans will join in these good wishes."

Elsworth DuTeau, past president of the Nebraska Alumni Association (1953-54) and a key figure in the "Big Red" fund drive:

"Bill certainly has done an excellent job this season. I am happy for him and his team that he is closing his career here on such a strong note.

"I extend to Bill my best wishes."

Bill Taylor, game captain for the Big Seven championship scrap with Oklahoma Saturday, spoke for the team after hearing that Coach Bill Glassford was resigning.

"Everybody on the squad feels Nebraska is losing a great coach and a great friend. The squad feels this sincerely.

"I believe Nebraska's football teams in the future will bear us out."

Clarence Swanson, Lincoln member of the Board of Regents:

No comment."

Regent C. Y. Thompson, West Point:

"I never did think Nebraska's poor showing was because of his (Glassford's) lack of ability. I have always had confidence in Bill Glassford. The way he was treated, he would naturally want to quit. In order to subdue some of the criticism Nebraska has received, it looks like we will have to have a new coach."

Regent B. N. Greenberg, York:

"Mr. Glassford's decision was entirely of his own volition. He has rendered a fine service to the University of Nebraska. He has been a gentleman at all times."

Regent Frank M. Johnson, Lexington:

"No comment."

Regent Earle Jonhson, Grand Island:

"No comment."

Don Faurot, University of Missouri football coach:

"Bill has done a wonderful job this year after a slow start. He's brought the boys down the stretch in good shape. I've enjoyed our associations with Bill and Nebraska, and I've got to admit he's won his share from us. Bill's in good shape this season compared to a couple of years ago."

Dal Ward, University of Colorado football coach:

"Bill's teams always played us a great game of football. The last few years a strong rivalry has developed between Nebraska and Colorado, but they (the Huskers) always played clean, hard football. I think Bill got a lot out of his material. The team that beat us this year was a well-coached club."

Vince DeFrancisca, Iowa State football coach:

"Bill and his staff did a terrific job of knitting the Nebraska team together after a loose start this fall. I have the greatest respect for him and his teams. They have handled us easily in the two years I have been at Iowa State. The Huskers of 1954 were one of the best teams we played all year, and this year — despite the fact that we were up and Nebraska was pointing for Colorado — they still whipped us."

Bus Mertes, Kansas State football coach:

"I was sorry to hear that he had resigned, after the fine job he did this fall. I wish him the best of luck."

(The two other Big Seven coaches, Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma and Chuck Mather of Kansas, could not be reached for comment.)

Floyd Bottorff, equipment manager for the University of Nebraska football team:

"Bill is the nicest and most cooperative coach I've ever worked with. He is the ninth coach at the University since I started here."

Lincoln Businessmen Angered By Inference Of Interference

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Bill Glassford's decision to pass up his five-year contract option as University of Nebraska football coach prompted many wishes for a successful future late Thursday.

University officials all expressed deep regard for Glassford, as did local citizens. And all voiced hopes for his future.

But there was one note of discord brought about by the Omaha World Herald and its Lincoln sports correspondent, Gregg McBride.

In a Thursday morning copyrignted story, the World Herald predicted Glassford would not pick up his option. Then Mr. McBride offered his personal reasons for Glassford's decision.

The World Herald story said:

"Mr. Glassford is the twenty-first University of Nebraska coach. His troubles probably can be traced to the same causes that led to the firing of most of his predecessors. These include:

"1. Failure to win the conference championship or certain big games.

"2. Disgruntled alumni, miffed at not being able to dominate the football department and squeeze into the inner circles.

"3. An administration, both in the university and Athletic Department, which some believed failed to support the coach following defeats."

"4. Some assistants, who when fired or not rehired, attempted to work on the sympathy of alumni and-or players.

"5. A few Lincoln merchants fearful lest a losing team wash out Saturday football crowds."

It was No. 5 that had local businessmen up in arms Thursday. For Lincoln has long been the leader in supporting Glassford in every way possible, while outstate alums --particularly from Omaha — shied away.

Most of the money collected during the Big Red fund drive a year ago came from Lincoln businessmen.

Typical of the Lincoln businessman's reaction to the World Herald's charge was the statement by John Campbell, president of Miller and Paine department store.

"I will say categorically that the statement that was reported in the Omaha World Herald was a lie," Campbell said. "To the best of my knowledge, no Lincoln businessman has attempted in any way to interfere with Coach Glassford."

Campbell continued, "We are all furious — the business men I have talked to — because we know that any reference to Lincoln business men interfering with the University of Nebraska athletic department affairs is absolutely untrue."

"We would certainly like to know who these men are that the World Herald refers to," Campbell said. "I'm sure they don't exist. And I will say that the World Herald attack on Lincoln businessmen appears to be one of the worst breaches of sportsmanship I have seen in a long time."

While No. 1 is a legitimate point concerning Glassford's troubles, there are some questions about at least one other, No. 3.

Coach Glassford can have no complaint with the present administration, either all-university or athletic department, because both have backed him to the hilt.

Chancellor Hardin has supported him and did not put any pressure on Bill to resign.

And Athletic Director Bill Orwig has gone along with every proposal Glassford has made, an effort to give the Husker coach 100 per cent backing.

Orwig had said, "Whatever decision Bill makes will be his own. And as long as Bill is the football coach, he will have the departments entire support."

Thursday Glassford seemed somewhat surprised by the World Herald's reasons for his decision.

And when queried about the charge against Lincoln businessmen, he said: "As far as I'm concerned I have no animosity toward anybody. Everybody has treated me fairly."

Asked if the university and/or athletic department has backed him, Glassford answered:

"I have had no interference from anybody!"

★ ★ ★ No Official Successor Action Yet

Lincoln was a hubbub of speculation Thursday night, following Coach Bill Glassford's long-expected resignation.

Several names were being tossed around, but there was nothing official. In fact, there has been nothing official done on the matter of replacing Glassford.

Athletic Director Bill Orwig, who spoke at a banquet at the Minden Country Club, told The Star by telephone:

"We have no one in mind at the moment. But now we must begin to think in terms of a successor. We will begin processing as soon as possible."

Orwig stressed that he had contacted no one and would not begin to search for a new coach until his return to Lincoln Friday.

Among the more prominently named possible candidates are three Michigan University alums.

They are David Nelson of the University of Delaware; Pete Elliott, backfield coach at Oklahoma, and his brother, Chalmers (Bump) Elliott, Iowa assistant.

Orwig is also a Michigan alum and came to Nebraska after coaching there.

It is believed he will search for Glassford's successor among the long list of Big 10 grads now in the coaching field.

But, as Orwig said Thursday night, "nothing has been done yet."

Bill Rigney of the New York Giants, Fred Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals nd Bobby Bragan of the Pittsburgh Pirates are the new major league managers for 1956.

Grand Island Wins Big 10 Crown, 41-13

Lincoln Star Special

SCOTTSBLUFF — With Jerry Schroeder leading the way by scoring three touchdowns, Grand Island defeating Scottsbluff 41-13 Thursday in the Big Ten Conference championship football game.

Scottsbluff went off in front when Bob Lehr capped a 63-yard drive by scoring from the one-foot line and Larry Wheeler added the point in the first quarter.

Grand Island narrowed the gap to a single point when Jerry Wagner charged across from the two in the same period.

In the second quarter, Scottsbluff scored again on a 46-yard pass from Bob Rupp to Bill Lane. But Grand Island came back to score twice on an 80-yard kick-off return by Schrodeer and a 46-yard pass from Gene Suponchick to Larry Feaster.

Feaster added both points.

Grand Island turned the game into a near-rout by scoring three touchdowns in the final period, two of them by Schroeder on runs of 7 and 54 yards. The other came when Wagner rambled 25 yards with a fumbled Scottsbluff pitchout.

Grand Island	6	14	0	21	—41
Scottsbluff	7	6	0	0	—13

Grand Island scoring — touchdowns, Schroeder 3 (80, 54, 7 runs); Wagner 2 (2, 25, runs); Feaster (46, pass from Suponchick); conversions, Feaster 5.

Scottsbluff scoring — Touchdowns, Lehr (1 foot, plunge); Lane (46, pass from Rupp); conversion, Wheeler.

Seven-Year Nebraska Career Turbulent One

Bill Glassford's seven-year tenure at Nebraska was a turbulent period in which Husker followers sometimes praised their coach to the skies and sometimes howled for his scalp.

Glassford's Nebraska career was marred by a player revolt and by public discontent at various times.

Hard luck plagued Glassford and his teams. He suffered a gall bladder ailment during the 1953 season; crippling injuries to players and loss of players through ineligibility and scholastic failure hurt his Nebraska teams on several occasions.

Bright spots were (1) the 1950 season, when Bobby Reynolds made All-America teams as a sophomore and the Huskers had a 6-2-1 record; (2) the 1954 season, which resulted in an Orange Bowl trip and an overall 6-5 record; (3) Nebraska's current success in the Big Seven. The Huskers are undefeated in the conference.

In seven years at Nebraska, Glassford compiled an overall record of 31 wins, 34 losses and 3 ties. His Big Seven record during that period is 23 won, 17 lost and one tie through last week's game with Colorado.

Here is a history of Glassford's seven years at Nebraska:

1949—Glassford signed a one-year contract. Quarterback Fran Nagle and Center Tom Novak were standouts as Nebraska won four and lost five. Rumors arose that Glassford was being sought as coach by his alma mater, the University of Pittsburgh.

1950—Nagle, Reynolds and an outstanding line boosted Nebraska to second place in the Big Seven. Nebraska won six, lost two and tied one; Reynolds was an All-American halfback. This was the peak of Glassford's Nebraska career.

Rumors that Glassford was being sought at other schools, notably Minnesota, were repeated. Nebraska students gave an impromptu demonstration for Glassford. It was at this time that Glassford's present contract was drawn.

The contract, calling for a salary on a sliding scale starting at $11,000 (later increased to $12,500), was for five years with the option to continue as head coach for five additional years.

1951 — Nebraska fortunes changed quickly and after bright prospects before the season, the Huskers won one game, lost eight and tied one. The tie, a 6-6 deadlock with Kansas State, was later forfeited and Nebraska is credited with a 2-8 record for 1951.

1952—Nebraska had a winning season, winning five, losing four and tying one.

1953 — Glassford's pre-season practice at Curtis was banned. Nebraska won three, lost six, tied one. Player dissension appeared again, along with public discontent. "Good-Bye Glassford" signs appeared. During the last part of the season, Glassford suffered from a gall bladder ailment and underwent an operation to correct the condition following the season.

The infamous "player rebellion" followed the 1953 season.

While Glassford was in Ohio in January, 1954 attending a coaches' convention, many of his players signed a petition asking that Glassford be removed. Many of the players said they would not play for Glassford again; harsh treatment was the main complaint.

The player petition was supposedly submitted to Acting Chancellor John Selleck and the Board of Regents. The report of the team's complaints was never made public but six players did make statements listing their complaints.

The now-defunct Board of Intercollegiate Athletics climaxed the revolt by deciding to comply with provisions of Glassford's contract.

Glassford and the players later settled their differences and all but two of the "rebels" reported for spring practice.

1954 — Nebraska finished with a 6-5 record including a 34-7 loss to Duke in the Orange Bowl. Preseason predictions had the Huskers tabbed for sixth place; criticism abated to some extent.

1955—Public discontent flared again after Nebraska lost to Hawaii, 6-0, in the opening game. Nebraska lost three other non-conference games but compiled a 5-0 conference record and has a 5-4 overall mark going into the Oklahoma game.

Following Glassford's resignation, Chancellor Hardin said the school would honor the contracts of the assistant coaches. All contracts expire within a year.

Here is the status of the football assistants and contract expiration dates:

Bob Davis, backfield coach, Feb. 1, 1956.

Mike Milligan, line coach, April 1, 1956.

John Kovatch, end coach March 1, 1956.

Ed Nyden, freshman coach, Aug. 15, 1956.

Don Strasheim, guard coach, March 1, 1956 (may not apply since Strasheim is head wrestling coach in addition to his football duties.)

Irish Given 9-Point Nod Over Iowans

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Notre Dame, the nation's No. 4 football team, faces in Iowa Saturday a team which this year has swiped the perennial Irish claim of playing the toughest schedule in the country.

The battered Hawkeyes, with a 3-4-1 record, aren't even rated among the top 20 teams in the weekly Associated Press poll. And they'll be a 9-point underdog in their season finale against the Irish (7-1) at South Bend, Ind.

But in their last four games, the Hawkeyes have faced three of the nation's top nine teams—No. 5 UCLA, No. 6 Michigan and No. 9 Ohio State.

Huff And Puff

Meanwhile, the Fighting Irish the past two weeks had to huff and puff, for the first half, at least, to whip Penn, winless in eight starts, and North Carolina, now beaten five times.

Notre Dame's only meeting with a currently high-ranked team resulted in the lone Irish loss, 21-7, to Michigan State, now No. 3 in the AP ratings.

It's true, however, Miami of Florida and Navy were top ranked when Notre Dame beat them and have skidded since.

Iowa Coach Forest Evashevski won't buy any sad stories of Irish injuries. He's had more than his share of hobbled athletes, including the early season loss of a great end, Frank Gilliam.

In retrospect, Iowa's chance for an expected fine season blew up in its second game when Wisconsin roared back from a 14-0 deficit to stun the Hawkeyes 37-14.

★ ★ ★ 'Same Eleven' Are Starters

Preparations continued Thursday for Nebraska's meeting with Oklahoma University Saturday in a game that will decide the Big Seven championship.

In line with Glassford's earlier announced plans, the gridders drilled hard but there was no contact work.

Glassford said he would start the same eleven men who took the field against Colorado last Saturday.

That means Leroy Butherus and Jon McWilliams will go at ends, LaVerne Torczon and Jack Fleming at tackle, Don Kampe and Bill Taylor at guard and Doran Post at center.

In the backfield will be Don Erway at quarter, Rex Fischer at left half, Willie Greenlaw at right half and Johnny Edwards at fullback.

Five of the starters, Post, Taylor, McWilliams, Fischer and Edwards, are seniors and will be playing their last game as Cornhuskers.

Oklahoma-Husker Scrap Pits All-Star Hopefuls

By SKIPPER PATRICK

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma-Nebraska football game for the Big Seven championship at Lincoln Saturday will be spiced by nearly a dozen players hitting their last major licks for All-Star recognition.

Three players also will be shooting for possible all-America honors.

Each team has won all five of its conference games thus far. Nebraska has lost four non-conference tilts. Oklahoma has a victory string of 27 games.

Oklahoma, rated No. 1 nationally, will show All-America candidates in guard Bo Bolinger, center Jerry Tubbs and halfback Tommy McDonald. Clearly the class of the Big Seven since 1947. Oklahoma has other top grade stars such as Edmon Gray, tackle; Cecil Morris, guard, and backs Jimmy Harris, Bob Burris and Billy Pricer.

Nebraska can't match Oklahoma man for man, but has sharp operatives in tackle Laverne Torczon, end Jon McWilliams and backs Rex Fischer, Willie Greenlaw and Don Erway.

Among the backs in the Missouri Valley area, McDonald is the only one who has been cited every week by the All-American nominating board. The 169-pound junior from Albuquerque, N. M., is second in the match in scoring with 14 touchdowns for 84 points. He's rushed the ball 76 times for 550 yards; leads the Big Seven in punt returns —10 for 200 yards—and has completed 14 of 19 passes without an interception for 200 yards.

Fischer leads the Big Seven in rushing yardage, 592 in 119 carries and has scored 4 touchdowns.

Other players cited by the board this week include four from Kansas State who had a hand in the Wildcats' 21-0 victory over Missouri. They are Jim Fury, center; guards Ellis Rainsberger and Rudy Bletscher, and fullback Doug Roether.

Pats on the back also went to Galen Wahlmeier, Kansas center; Harold Burnine, Missouri end; Billy Russell, back and tackle Dick Quadri, of Detroit; and Earl Linsford, Oklahoma A&M fullback.

By Don Bryant

Sports Editor, The Star

We shall fight on the kickoff, we shall fight on the 50, we shall fight on the 10, we shall fight on the goal line and we shall fight on the extra points; we shall never surrender. . . . If we can stand up to them (Sooners), all the Big Seven may be free and the life of the conference may move forward into broad, sunlit uplands. . . . Let us therefore brace ourselves to our duties, and so bear ourselves that, if the University of Nebraska and the Big Seven Conference last for a thousand years, men will say: This Was Their Finest Hour.

—Apologies to Sir Winston Churchill

With some slight alterations Winnie gave the people of England the above pep talk when the Germans threatened invasion in 1940 and it's good to recall when peril threatens.

England was a decided underdog then, just as the Nebraska Cornhuskers are decided underdogs against Oklahoma Saturday.

We don't think the Huskers can win, but we're expecting them to play their top game of the year.

Sooner depth, if nothing else, will be the deciding factor, despite all the heart that Nebraska puts into the contest.

But if Churchill's words can apply in some degree to the Cornhuskers after the Oklahoma battle, they will have done a worthwhile job.

Heading into the stretch, the Point Blank guessing average is .721, with 258 bullseyes and 100 "Maggies."

Western Loop Expansion Answer Expected Today

Will the Western League be an eight team league today?

The answer should come sometime Friday on the question of whether or not the Western will admit Amarillo, Tex., and Albuquerque, N.M., to membership, thus boosting the loop from six to eight teams.

The Star learned Thursday night that a telegraphic vote is being taken by the league. All votes are due by Friday and the announcement is expected shortly.

While both Amarillo and Albuquerque have posted their $10,001 guarantees as stipulated by the Western, there is no assurance that the two teams will be admitted.

The Western League constitution requires that the vote to admit new members must be unanimous.

It is believed that Lincoln will vote for the expansion, but there is some question about two other eastern clubs. Opposition apparently stems from the travel distances involved if the two southwestern teams were admitted.

The group that has been operating the Amarillo club in the West Texas-New Mexico League on a lease basis has bought the club outright and announced it would give it, free of debt, to the Tri-State Fair Association. The club will be operated as a community project. The group buying the club includes A. F. Madison, John Fullingim, S. B. Whittenburg, Sam Dunn and Virgil Patterson. Selling the club were Toney Dowlen, Charley Ford and Guy Todd.

Grid Coach Is Threatened

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Art (Pappy) Lewis, West Virginia University's football coach, got this letter in the mail Thursday:

"Art:

"This is to warn you that unless you want something terrible to happen to you and your team, don't beat Syracuse next Saturday. This is not a 'crank' letter and we are well enough organized to make you very sorry if you fail to heed our warning.

"DON'T TRY TO CROSS US PAPPY AS WE WILL HAVE SOMEONE THERE WATCHING EVERYTHING."

The letter came in a plain envelope and was postmarked at 4:30 p.m. Nov. 14 at Newark, N. J.

Lewis commented:

"They sure picked a fine day. Everybody in the stands will be toting rifles with it being Mountaineer Day.

"Our boys are up and they're determined nothing is going to happen like what did last Saturday even if they have to get a new coach."

Cassady Hurt In Auto Crash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's already injury-plagued Big 10 football leaders suffered the biggest scare of the season Thursday when All-American halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassady was injured slightly in an automobile collision.

But the red-haired fireball found it no tougher than enemy tacklers, and a few hours later was out on the practice field preparing for the final game of his illustrious career at Michigan Saturday.

The wiry, 178-pound Cassady was going home for lunch after his morning classes and was waiting to complete a left turn when his car was struck from behind by another car.

He said the impact "snapped my neck. It hurt quite a bit at the time, and is still pretty stiff."

Ready for Showdown

But Hoppy will be "100 per cent ready" for Saturday's showdown battle that will decide whether the Wolverines or Michigan State's Spartans get the Rose Bowl nod. The Buckeyes are leading the conference, but even if they beat Michigan, would not be eligible to return to Pasadena since they defeated Southern California in the 1955 spectacle.

Ohio State's switchboards, newspapers and wire services were flooded with calls. Everyone wanted to know "How's Hoppy?"

Buckeye Trainer Ernie Biggs said Cassady's injury was a "muscle strain in the neck at the "top of the shoulders." The star underwent heat and massage treatment or about 45 minutes Thursday, and Biggs said it would be repeated.

"He may be a little stiff and sore Saturday, but it won't bother him. He got a pretty good shock," said Biggs.

Rhode Island, Jacksonville Foes

JACKSONVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The University of Rhode Island and Jacksonville State of Alabama were announced Thursday as opponents in the Refrigerator Bowl football game at Evansville, Ind., Dec. 4.

Jacksonville Head Coach Don Salls said no word had been received from Refrigerator Bowl officials, although Assistant Coach Tom Roberson telephoned that the Alabama team "appeared" in.

Salls said members of the team and athletic committee would have to approve any offer before Jacksonville could accept.

Jacksonville won eight straight games before losing to Florence (Ala.) State in a 21-7 upset. The Gamecocks close out their regular season with Howard (Ala.) College Saturday night.

Rhode Island has a record of six wins and three ties. The Eastern team's top effort was a 19-7 victory over Brown which then defeated Harvard 14-6.

The Rams are champions of the Yankee Conference.

Aussie Stars To Meet

SYDNEY (AP) — Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Australia's Davis Cup stars, Thursday reached the finals of the New South Wales tennis championships. They will meet Saturday on the White City courts.

Hoad eliminated young Ashley Cooper 3-6, 9-7, 6-4, 6-4. Rosewall outlasted Neale Fraser 9-11, 7-5, 6-4, 6-8, 6-1.

Prep Cager Killed

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — A Stamford high school sophomore was injured fatally Wednesday night while trying out for the school's basketball team.

Medical Examiner Rudolf A. Colmers attributed the death of Edward W. Tynes, 15, to a skull fracture.

School authorities said the boy fell, striking his head on the floor of the school gymnasium.

Byrne Scores Top Comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Byrne, the southpaw brought back from the minors by the New York Yankees after being considered washed up as a major league pitcher, easily won the American League Comeback of the Year honors for 1955.

The 36-year-old alumnus of Wake Forest, currently on a Far Eastern tour with the Yanks, received 80 of a possible 99 votes in a poll of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America conducted by The Associated Press.

It was just a little over four years ago that the American League champions finally gave up on Tommy. They had presisted with him, season after season since 1940, despite his lack of control. Then they sent him, along with $25,000, to the St. Louis Browns for veteran pitcher Stubby Overmire.

Couldn't Make Grade

Byrne couldn't make the grade with the Browns, White Sox or Senators and finally was sent down to the American Assn., where he finished the 1953 season with Charleston and a 1-6 record.

The following year he caught on with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, revised his pitching pattern and won 20 games. That was good enough for Manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks. He won 3 of 5 decisions late in the '54 season but was bypassed during spring training and the early part of the 1955 season as he once again was plagued by control trouble.

He just managed to survive the May 15 cutdown, but on May 30 he beat Washington 5-3. From then on he was a regular starter, winding up with a 16-5 record and a 5-hit, 4-1 World Series victory over Brooklyn.

Grimsley Picks Sooners To Top Huskers By 45-7

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Throw away the form sheets. Forget past performances. Turn a deaf ear to the smart talk. Traditional football rivalries come up this week and they know no favorites.

Our score lastweek was 36-12. Season's average: .730. First our super-duper upset special:

Southern California 21, UCLA 19: UCLA is a 10-point favorite. But Red Sanders has lost his ace passer, Ronnie Knox, and Southern Cal has spent two weeks getting ready.

Michigan 27, Ohio State 20: The Wolverines outscore Hopalong Cassady to gain the Rose Bowl. Upset possibilities but home grounds the decider.

Oklahoma 45, Nebraska 7: The unbeaten Sooners ride the surrey with the fringe on top.

Maryland 30, George Washington 7: Ed Vereb finds convenient holes in GW's mammoth line

West Virginia 21, Syracuse 14: We think Pappy Lewis can bring his fine team back from the Pitt disaster.

Tennessee 21, Kentucky 7: Under Bowden Wyatt, the Volunteers have developed into one of Dixie's best.

Stanford 30, California 14: This is called the "Big Game" on the coast. Stanford's improvement too great for the Golden Bears.

Texas Christian 28, Rice 13: Jim Swink adds to his touchdown total in leading the Horned Frogs into the Cotton Bowl.

Pittsburgh 26, Penn State 13: Pitt has two of the country's finest ends in John Paluck and Joe Walton. Lenny Moore to score twice.

Vanderbilt 20, Florida 6: Charlie Horton's climax running gives the improving Commodores their sixth straight.

Notre Dame 28, Iowa 14: The Fighting Irish get the best of what should be a real back-alley brawl.

Yale 19, Harvard 6: Old Eli avenges the stinging defeats of the last two seasons.

Michigan State 34, Marquette 7: The Spartans win easily although they'll have one eye on Ann Arbor.

The others:

Both Aggies, Denver Rate Three 'Stars'

DENVER (INS)—Colorado A&M and Denver University each placed three men on the International News Service all-Rocky Mountain football first team of 1955.

The all-star backfield combines the all-around ability of Gary Glick of Colorado A&M, who performs any backfield chore, with the individual abilities of passer Jimmy Bowen of Denver, the power-running of Utah's Herb Nakken, and the punting and ball-carrying and scoring-punch of Utah State's Jack Hill.

The line is well anchored by Larry Ross of Denver and George Boss of Utah, with guards Dan Mirich of Colorado Aggies and Jerry Nesbit of New Mexico, tackles Ray Lutterman of Wyoming and Ed Horvat of Denver the outstanding "Workhorses" in the region.

At center is Bob Weber of Colorado Aggies, probably the outstanding lineman of the Rockies.

The 1955 All-Rocky Mountain teams:

Fastrano Is 3-1 Favorite Over Rowan

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Pastrano, the one-time "Fat Boy" from New Orleans, is a 3-1 choice to stretch his unbeaten string to 14 tonight when he makes his Madison Square Garden debut against Joe Rowan, another streaking youngster.

Now rated the world's No. 3 light heavyweight behind champion Archie Moore and Floyd Patterson, Pastrano hasn't tasted defeat in nearly two years. Since Nov. 30, 1953, fleet-footed Willie has won 12 and tied once, with Willie Troy.

Impressive String

His victories include decisions over former light - heavyweight ruler Joey Maxim, Chuck Spieser and Paddy Young. A growing boy who won't be 20 until Nov. 27, Willie stands 5-11½ and weighs 117. His over-all record is 33-4-4 with eight knockouts. He never has been stopped and says he hasn't been floored.

The 10-rounder starts at 9 p.m., CST, and will be broadcast and telecast (NBC-TV and radio), coast to coast.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point system also is used to help break ties. The winner of each round gets from 1 to 4 points, the loser none.

Wilson To Speak At Grid Dinner

The University Club dinner, honoring the Cornhusker football team, will be held Monday, Dec. 12, instead of Nov. 22. The latter date was in conflict with the Thanksgiving holidays, Dr. Norman Carlson, president of the University Club stated.

Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, Big Ten commissioner, will be the speaker.

All Nebraska seniors are awarded wrist watches at this annual affair.

Cerv Clouts Two In Yankee Victory

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) —The visiting New York Yankees Thursday crushed the Okinawa All-Star U. S. service team, 9 to 1, in a seven-inning game.

The Yanks blasted five homers, two each by Andy Carey and Bob Cerv and one by Tommy Byrne, starting and winning pitcher.

Jim Mullen, Giant bonus player, homered for the All-Stars. Mullen is stationed here with the Army. His team got five hits, the Yankees 13.

Eight thousand fans sat through a rainy afternoon to see a game played in place of a doubleheader rained out Wednesday.

The Yanks left Thursday for the Philippines.

Auction Law Ruled Unconstitutional

. . . High Court Appeal Planned

A 1955 law, calling for a special license for the sale of new merchandise and goods at public auction except at the vendor's place of business, has been declared unconstitutional and void by the Lancaster District Court.

Judge Harry Ankeny declared LB 498 to be unconstitutional and enjoined Atty. Gen. C. S. Beck and Lancaster Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele from instituting any prosecutions or other actions in its enforcement.

The declaratory judgment was asked by Auctioneers Leslie L. Blauvelt, Mac Wondra and Clifford E. Anderson of Lincoln, Charles C. Gannett of Omaha, C. C. Gannet & Co., and Prima Sales Co.

The Attorney General's office has indicated the constitutionality of the bill will be tested in the Nebraska Supreme Court with an appeal from the District Court judgment.

Plaintiffs' petition had contended the law was unconstitutional because "the classification is discriminatory, the license fees confiscatory, and fines excessive and the punishment cruel and unusual."

The defendant attorneys demurred to the petition, alleging it failed to state a cause of action. This was overruled by the court and the defendants elected to stand on the demurrer without further answer or pleadings.

Scheele had filed last June complaints in County Court against Blauvelt and Gannett separately charging they "did unlawfully sell, dispose of and offer for sale . . . at public auction new goods and merchandise without first obtaining a license from the county clerk" on June 17.

Both defendants had pleaded innocent to the charge and the cases were continued on the agreement of the parties.

Judge Ankeny's ruling further requires that Beck and Scheele dismiss any complaints that were filed under LB 498 as law.

Watson Assessed Okay—Harrington

State Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington said Thursday Watson Bros. Transportation Co. equipment listed in Hall County appears to be "assessed properly."

He said Watson Bros. have 120 units assessed to the firm's Grand Island terminal.

Douglas County Assessor Joseph Stolinski asked the State Board of Equalization to check the firm's assessment. He said its principal place of business is in Omaha, but it has many units assessed in Otoe County, a substantial number in Hall County, and very few in Douglas County.

Herrington previously checked the situation in Otoe County and reported Watson Bros. equipment listed there appeared properly assessed.

Row Rages In Moscow's Diplomatic Colony As Chief Bulganin Starts Tour

MOSCOW (AP) — A first-class row raged behind the scenes of Moscow's diplomatic colony Thursday in the wake of the departure of Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita S. Khrushchev on a 5,000-mile tour to India, Burma and Afghanistan.

Burma's Ambassador Maung Ohn touched off the dispute, throwing into sharp conflict his country's neutralist policy and Western positions and principles. He had done it once before.

Authoritative sources said Ohn had canvassed the diplomatic colony trying to arrange a farewell dinner for Premier Bulganin and the Soviet Communist party boss at which the hosts would have been the entire dpilomatic corps.

This would have linked as hosts such antithetical persons as U. S. Charge d'Affaires Walter N. Walmsley Jr., and the ambassador of Communist North Korea; British Ambassador Sir William Hayter and the East German ambassador; French Charge d'Affaires Jean Laloi and Communist-led North Viet Nam's ambassador.

The Westerners explained this could imply recognition by their governments of regimes they do not acknowledge. They were angered because Ohn had raised the same issue in a more extreme form 13 months ago. The Western diplomats considered it unfortunate the differences should arise again just as Bulganin and Khrushchev were off on a tour to win friends and influence people in South Asia. It's considered rather important at this time to do nothing to affront public opinion in those countries.

The previous incident touched off by Ohn, deputy dean of the diplomatic corps, was in October 1954. Ambassadors of the North Atlantic nations, arriving at a dinner he arranged at the Sovietskaya Hotel in honor of Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, found they were expected to dine with the unrecognized ambassadors. All the Westerners walked out, explaining to Molotov they meant no insult to him

In the Soviet press, benefits were seen from the Geneva conference.

The labor newspaper Trud said the broad possibilities have become clearer for the successful settlement of such important questions as safeguarding the security of Europe disarmament, the German question and extending economic and cultural intercourse among nations "The U.S.S.R. will in the future too, be true to the spirit of Geneva, the spirit of cooperation and confidence in relations between states," Trud said. "The Soviet Union intends also in the future to conduct a policy designed to ease international tension."

The West was blamed by the government newspaper Izvestia for the lack of specific accomplishments

New Type Officer

DENVER (INS) — More than 150 radio and TV news directors were told the air academy in Denver will provide the new type of officer needed to command supersonic air fleets.

Academy superintendent Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon told delegates to the annual convention of the Radio and Television News Directors Assn. that well-rounded officers trained both physically and mentally, are vital for modern air warfare.

Plan In To Shave 3 Hours Off Road Men's Work Week

Representatives of organized labor have asked Gov. Victor Anderson to approve a five day work week for maintenance workers of the highway department.

The maintenance workers now work 48 hours a week, nine hours on five days and three hours on Saturday.

Under the proposed plan, the three hours on Saturday would be dropped. They asked that the pay per week remain the same with the shorter week.

L. N. Ress, state engineer, said the governor had not discussed the proposal with him. He said that at their conference on the work week he would show how much additional pay it would cost the state.

Hourly wage rates now range from $1.15 to $2 an hour.

Gordon Preble, president of the Nebraska Foundation of Labor, and Theodore Fontaine, representative of State, County and Municipal Employes Union, headed the delegation making the proposal.

Chiefs Arrive

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio Thursday night reported the arrival of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev in the Uzbek capital of Tashkent in Central Asia.

The Soviet leaders are flying to India and other Asian lands. Uzbekstan is one of the Soviet republics of the U.S.S.R.

Judge OKs Photos In Plane-Blast Case Court

DENVER (AP)— Although most judges here oppose the practice, District Judge James M. Noland Thursday permitted photographs to be made in his courtroom when a man charged with murder was called before him.

Judge Noland invited the photographers—newspaper, magazine, newsreel and television—to make pictures under specified conditions.

The court session was brief, just long enough for the judge to announce delay until Nov. 28 of the arraignment of John Gilbert Graham, 23, accused of dynamiting an airliner carrying 44 persons, including his mother, to their deaths.

Judge Noland is usually assigned to the District Court at Durango, in southwestern Colorado but come here to fill in during the illness of a Denver judge.

He estimated there were "at least 20" photographers in his courtroom Thursday.

"I have definite ideas about how a think as taking photographs in a courtroom should be handled," Judge Noland told a reporter.

"Before the court session was scheduled to open at 9 o'clock, I called all the photographers into my chambers. I informed them they were free to make all the pictures they wished as long as no flashbulbs or lights were used.

"I emphasized there could be no disturbances from the photographers any more than from the spectators. They agreed to co-operate along the lines I suggested and I think it worked out very excellently.

"The photographers did not interfere with the orderly progress of the hearing in any way."

UNITED SHOWS WRECKAGE MOCK-UP

DENVER (INS) — United Air Lines Thursday took the wraps off its carefully-reconstructed mock-up of the DC-6b liner that was blown to bits near Longmont, Colo., Nov. 1, killing 44 persons.

The reconstructed portions of the plane will be a key piece of evidence in the murder trial of John Gilbert Graham, who faces charges of killing his mother by planting a bomb aboard the plane.

Newsmen were allowed a look at the mock-up Thursday after Denver district Attorney Bert Keating, who will personally prosecute Graham, completed his own inspection.

The plane has been reconstructed in segments, which fill most of the giant warehouse north of Stapleton Airport, the liner's last stop before the crash.

2 Key Pieces

Attention centered on two rebuilt pieces of the plane — the 25-foot section of fuselage at the point of the explosion and boat-shaped cargo pit beneath it.

It was when the chunks of the cargo pit were fitted together in a grim jigsaw puzzle pattern that investigators first were certain that an explosion "foreign to the aircraft" had caused the crash.

The reconstruction was directed by Douglas Aircraft company engineers, working from the original blueprints to determine where each piece of wreckage fitted. Every fragment of metal had been tagged with its location on the sugar beet field where the crash occurred.

The fuselage section, held together with chicken wire over a wooden frame, consisted of battered sheets of metal, looking now like crumpled pieces of aluminum foil.

In another part of the warehouse, investigators had set up the passenger seats that were over the bomb area. The metal frames were badly bent, indicating the force of the explosion, but strangely, the upholstery was mostly intact.

W. C. Mentzer, general manager of United Airlines engineers, said 40 men had been employed collecting the wreckage.

Employes OK Social Security

Social Security referendums of Nebraska school employes this week gave approval by a percentage of 95.19 per cent with 475 of 499 eligible voters balloting "yes", tabulations made Thursday showed.

The elections were held Tuesday at the state's four teachers colleges and other educational branches of the state government. The results followed a pattern of over 90 per cent approval already given by employes at the University of Nebraska, University of Omaha and of the Omaha public school system.

Other public school employes over the state will vote on the matter during referendums held in December.

During Tuesday's voting at the teachers colleges, the Board of Control educational institutions and the Department of Education, 475 of the 499 voted "yes." Seven failed to vote and 10 voted "no."

The tabulation, reported to Dwight Williams, director of the merit system, showed the vote at individual institutions as:

Chadron Teachers College, 68 eligible, 68 for.

Kearney Teachers College, 79 eligible, 72 for.

Peru Teachers College, 68 eligible 64 for.

Wayne Teachers College, 94 eligible, 92 for.

Department of Education, 79 eligible, 77 for.

Board of Control, 111 eligible, 102 for.

Balanced Budget Is In Sight

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) —An increasingly chipper President Eisenhower Thursday whirled through a series of conferences that sparked hopes for a balanced budget and a vast new highway program.

With assurances from his doctors that he is coming along "most satisfactorily" from his Sept. 24 heart attack, Eisenhower opened his new office in the Gettysburg Post Office and put in more than two hours in work and conferences.

Out of the conferences came:

Mum On Tax Cut

Assurances from Budget Director Rowland Hughes that he thinks the federal budget can be balanced —although there is no certainty— both for the present fiscal year ending next June 30 and the one starting July 1. Hughes wouldn't say this would mean a tax cut, but most predictions of reduction have been pegged to a balanced budget.

Word from Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks that administration authorities are shying away from special bond financing in the direction of a pay-as-you-go system for a 25-billion-dollar network of interstate highways.

Demos Fought Bond Plan

If Eisenhower goes along, it would represent a reversal of his previous support for the bond method. On that, Weeks said he got no indication of what the President would do. Democrats in Congress have fought the bond plan and Weeks' words indicated some grounds for agreement in Congress might be reached.

Viaduct Opening Group To Be Named Monday

A viaduct opening formalities committee will be named Monday by Mayor Clark eJary to arrange proper festivities for the long-awaited opening of the viaduct.

Mayor Jeary said Thursday following conferences with the contracting firm building the viaduct that Dec. 1 will be the opening day. If the span isn't ready then, the mayor said, there will be, at the most, a two-day delay.

The Council will be asked to establish the formalities committee, the mayor said.

Also, he will ask the Council for its thinking on a formal name for the viaduct. Announcement on the plans will probably be made Monday, the mayor said.

Jeary said one car of steel, for railings, had arrived in the city and another car was on the way. These will have been put in place by the time of the opening ceremonies.

Jeary said he expected there would be several dignitaries invited to the opening, including Gov. Victor Anderson, mayor at the time of the first negotiations for the viaduct, L. N. Ress, state engineer, the federal engineers who participated in planning the project, the Council, and interested citizens.

Ribbon-Cutting

The ceremonies likely will include a ribbon-cutting, the mayor stated. Also, the Council will be asked to choose the first car to go over the span.

Along with his announcement of the formalities committee naming, the mayor said he issued a "blast" to Burlington Railroad officials asking them to do "something" about the 10th St. viaduct.

The mayor said the surface condition of the viaduct has gotten worse in the past few weeks.

Lincoln-Omaha Highway Given Heaviest Traffic

The most heavily traveled highway in Nebraska last month was U.S. 6 between Lincoln and Omaha.

The average daily traffic count was 4,703 vehicles for a 24-hour period north of Gretna.

Second-highest was the 4,450 vehicles a day on U.S. 77-275 north of Fremont, the State Highway Department reported.

The count on U.S. 30 at the Elm Creek station was 3,482.

Traffic on all Nebraska highways for the first ten months of 1955 was two per cent heavier than in the corresponding period of 1954.

'EVERY GENERATION MUST PROTECT PRESS FREEDOM'

. . . Says Interior Press Officer

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) — Every generation must dedicate itself anew to the maintenance of a free press, William C. Strand, director of information of the Department of the Interior, said Thursday.

"Of all our free institutions," he said, "the press, I believe, is the most skeptical of the enduring quality of the freedom we have inherited and the most vigilant of its protection."

He spoke at a Freedom of the Press Day conference at Midland College where state college and university journalism students gathered to discuss press freedom.

Nov. 17 was the 221st anniversary of the arrest of John Peter Zenger, New York newspaperman, whose trial established freedom of the press.

The press is "by instinct suspicious of interference with its freedom," Strand said. "Out of this skepticism comes a strong and constant pressure that helps keep our democracy vital.

Freedom Of Information

"On the surface all may look well to upright and respectable citizens, but the press, more keenly aware of the fragility of freedom, is never content. It keeps poking into dark corners and peering under rugs. Like a terrier, it drags any issue thus uncovered out into the light for a thorough public shaking.

"Currently receiving such a treatment is the issue which has become known as freedom of information," he said.

"Some forthright editors and correspondents, as you know, feel that the Federal Government does not disclose all the information they feel the press should have," he said.

Strand went on:

"The issue has become somewhat clouded by the complications of military security. Even the most ardent advocates of fuller disclosure are the first to admit that national defense requires tight secrecy around some military plans and developments.

"I shall not becloud the issue further by venturing into military matters which are entirely beyond my province. I'd like to talk for a moment about the Freedom of Information pressures which are felt in the strictly civilian and peacetime operations of the Interior Department.

"I welcome those pressures. I know information directors of other government agencies welcome them too. They make our jobs infinitely easier. Such pressures help us overcome the normal inclination of busy executives — and this is true outside the government as well as within — to keep silent about problems they are trying to solve until agreement is reached on a reasonably satisfactory basis.

Mart Turns Down Near Record High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned down Thursday as it neared a new record high mark.

The setback was small but it was the greatest in three weeks.

During that time the market had driven ahead stronsly to within scoring distance of the historic high set Sept. 23.

After the close Thursday, the Federal Reserve Board okayed boosts in the discount rate of its banks in New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta and Chicago to 2½ per cent from 2¼ per cent.

It was the fourth time this year the rate has been hiked, and it put the banks' charges for lending money at the highest level since 1934.

The rate is that charged member banks for money they borrow from the central bank. When that money is loaned in turn by the commercial banks to business, the higher interest charges usually are passed on.

That makes money tighter and tends to limit business borrowing for non-essential purposes.

The Federal Reserve Board in Washington said the move was anti-inflationary.

The last increase in the discount rate Aug. 3 sent the stock market down the next day in one of the hardest falls of the year.

The stock market Thursday started slightly higher but ran into selling difficulties almost immediately.

Aircrafts and radio-televisions managed rallies during the day, but the rest of the market refused to go along.

Volume amounted to only 2,310,000 shares as against 2,460,000 shares Wednesday.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed on volume of 790,000 shares, compared to 730,000 Wednesday.

Wheat,SoysHigher After Late Rally

CHICAGO (AP) — A late rally wiped out early losses and left wheat, rye and soybeans higher on the Board of Trade Thursday.

The rally also enabled corn and oats to reduce early losses but they didn't get back above the previous close.

Dealings were slow and the late rally was attributed primarily to short covering.

Wheat closed ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher, corn ¼-½ lower, oats unchanged to ⅛ lower and rye ¾-1½ higher.

Soybeans closed unchanged to 1 cent higher and lard 10 to 18 cents a hundred pounds higher.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK (AP)—Selected industrials performed well in a narrowly mixed bond market Wednesday.

Trading was sluggish and without any outstanding feature.

U. S. Treasury obligations moved up in fairly active trading. Strength was particularly noticeable in the long-range governments.

Over-the-counter dealers predicted the Federal Reserve Board's hike to 2½ per cent in the rediscount rate in New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta and Chicago would make for tighter money and depress prices of governmnet bonds.

Drive Organized To Start Pickrell Rural Fire District

Lincoln Star Special

PICKRELL, Neb. — About 35 persons interested in organizing a Pickrell Rural Fire District met at Pickrell School and decided to begin circulating petitions.

The proposed district would include 40 sections with an approximate valuation of two million dollars. Pickrell itself would be excluded from the district but would have fire protection through an agreement with the rural district.

Ekstrom of the state fire marshal's office at Lincoln attended the meeting to advise on the manner of organizing. Ekstrom told the group 60 per cent of the freeholders owning property and residing within the district would have to sign the petitions.

The district would lie north of the east and west Pickrell road which is also the boundary of the Beatrice Rural Fire District. It had been hoped that part of the Beatrice District could be included in the new district but it was learned that this could not be accomplished.

Members of the organizational committee who will circulate the petitions are John Miller, Alfred Haecker, John Cramer, Kenneth Wardlow, Fred Damkroger and Charles Spilker.

Supreme Court Told Red Party 'May Disintegrate' If Security Act Upheld

WASHINGTON (INS)—The government told the Supreme Court Thursday that the Communist Party "may well disintegrate" if the tribunal upholds the 1950 Internal Security Act.

Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff declared "that may well happen and should happen" because the party is neither a "chess club" nor "a group of nature-lovers."

Rather, Sobeloff asserted: "The Communist Party is part and parcel of that international movement dominated by the Soviet Union and its purpose, by force and violence if necessary, is to take over the government."

The federal lawyer made the statement as the high court took under advisement the party's appeal from a ruling that it must register with the government as a subversive organization.

Lawyers John J. Abt and Joseph Forer representing the party, contended that the 1950 law is unconstitutional and threatens freedom of speech in this country.

Forer claimed that the party has not been under Moscow control since 1940. He also contended that the law could be used to "destroy Americans for Democratic Action, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Fund For the Republic."

Nearly three years ago, the Subversive Activities Control Board ordered the party to register with the government. The decision was upheld by a 2-1 Appeals Court vote.

A favorable Supreme Court ruling would force the party to file regular membership and financial reports with the Attorney General under stiff penalties of fines and jail sentences.

Benefits Dropped

In addition, Communists would be barred from federal employment, Red propaganda would be identified and tax benefits for the group would be suspended.

Members of the high bench peppered rival counsel with numerous questions regarding the law. Some seemed critical of the procedure under which the Control Board has sole power to determine the subversive status of a group.

Several justices questioned whether individuals prosecuted for failing to comply with the law should not be entitled to jury trials on the nature of the organization involved.

But Justice Hugo Black commented at one point: "I'm with you on the idea that you can require registration."

Bipartisan Drive For Party Funds To Cost 10 Million

CHICAGO (INS) — Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler disclosed plans Thursday night for a bipartisan ten-million dollar advertising campaign to raise funds for the political parties in 1956.

He told the Democratic National Committee a bipartisan eight-man committee is to be set up, with former Presidents Herbert Hoover and Harry S. Truman as co-chairmen.

The chairmen of the two national committees will serve as ex-officio chairmen.

Butler, speaking in a closed meeting, reported that the advertising Council of America will take "ten million dollars worth of space" plugging the theme: "Make a political contribution to the party of your choice."

He said newspapers and magazines will be used to follow up after the national conventions with an appeal: "Help democracy live —Make a contribution to the party of your choice."

Don't miss it. News of friends on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, PTA notes and club meetings make good reading in The "Sunday Journal and Star."

She Cheated

BATON ROUGE, La. (INS) — A woman who won a spelling contest in Louisiana 40 years ago has written Gov. Robert Kennon confessing that she cheated and it has bothered her conscience ever since.

The woman, whose name was withheld, said she was awarded a certificate in 1915 signed by the governor for spelling 500 words correctly. The Jasper, Tex., woman wrote she had won under false pretenses and wanted to confess "the sin to the head of the government of the state of Louisiana."

"I copied a word from the girl sitting near me," she said.

It's Official

OKLAHOMA CITY (INS) — "Gladly for Adlai" will be the official trademark of what is believed the first club in the country chartered to work for the nomination of Adlai Stevenson for president.

I. H. Fredericks, Oklahoma City attorney and one of the incorporators of the Naitonal Democrats for Stevenson Clubs, Inc., filed the slogan — which originally was suggested as a joke — with the secretary of state as the official trademark.
